THE SAILORS' REUNION AT CHICAGO

Not a Good Place for Gamblers—Cold Weather—Famine in Chihuahua—Telephones to be Taxed—Etc.

[illegible] of Soldiers and Sailors

[illegible] 26.—Four thousand veterans of the [illegible] and thousands of their friends participated in the opening exercises of the reunion of the soldiers and sailors of the northwest at the driving park this afternoon. Governor Hamlin of [illegible] made the address of welcome and was followed by General Logan, who was accorded [illegible] reception. The general eulogized the patriotic motives that actuated the volunteers and paid an eloquent tribute to their achievements, detailing at length the services of the men from Illinois, following the record of the regiment from Illinois at the outbreak of the war [illegible] himself as follows: What I was as a soldier [illegible] You did the work, you braved the [illegible] and I gratefully accord the honor [illegible] the honors of patriotism to one [illegible] Let it be understood by all [illegible] citizen is entitled to [illegible] wherever our flag floats, at home or abroad. Other speakers were Mayor Harrison, ex-Governor [illegible] J. C. Black. A pleasing feature was [illegible] of the republic, sung by Miss [illegible] the veterans joining in chorus [illegible] in honor of the lamented [illegible] for general commemoration [illegible] fond remembrance of the dead [illegible] ends Saturday. To-morrow [illegible] and review.

CHANGED HIS MIND

A United States Marshal Goes to Arrest the Governor of Texas but is Talked out of it by that Official

GALVESTON, Aug. 26.—The News' Austin special says: United States Marshal Tracey arrived in the city to-day and entered the governor's office this afternoon bent on the errand of arresting Governor Ireland under a warrant issued in the Francoise miscegenation case. Tracey introduced the subject by saying: "Governor, I suppose you know what I am here for?" The governor made a suitable reply. Tracey said he regretted the necessity that he should have to perform such an official duty as the arrest of the governor of Texas, and presented his warrant. Governor Ireland at this juncture relieved Colonel Tracey of some apparent trepidation by saying he would always cheerfully submit to a process legal on its face, and would answer at the court as required, but he considered that the marshal of the eastern district of Texas had no authority to serve a process here outside of his jurisdiction; that the proceedings at Galveston were without the shadow of law on which to base a cause. This being so, while he made no resistance to the writ and would answer as any citizen should, he would hold Tracey and others who had interfered themselves to the matter responsible for their conduct. Tracey referred the governor to the United States statutes on the subject, which the governor declared he had already examined, and he so explained their tenor that Tracey, without making the arrest, left the executive office to consult District Attorney Evans, taking the warrant with him. In a couple of hours Tracey returned and informed the governor he would not execute the writ, stating he had consulted with Judge Evans, who verbally condemned the proceedings in strong language. In answer to a written question bearing on the case submitted to Evans by Tracey, the former furnished Tracey a written opinion declaring that the United States marshal of the Eastern district had no authority to arrest a citizen resident and found in the Western district under a writ issued by the United States commissioner for the Eastern district, except in special cases. Evans declared that the charge of violation of section 15[illegible] of the revised statutes of the United States is not a special case. Evans enters into details citing authorities to sustain his opinion that Tracey could not lawfully serve the warrant. Tracey informed the governor that he would return to Galveston. Meanwhile the governor awaits the next move in the celebrated case. It is understood that Judge Evans advises proceedings by Francoise to be dismissed.

POLITICAL.

SENATOR HOAR ANSWERS SCHURZ

WORCESTER, Mass., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The Spy prints to-day a letter from Senator Hoar, in which he reviews Schurz's Brooklyn speech. Hoar, referring to the Mulligan letters, said: Schurz's statement that the friends of Blaine say his offense has been condoned, declares they say no such thing. They say he has been triumphantly acquitted. They find him not guilty of these foul and injurious charges. They say that in this complicated matter the repeated tokens he has since received of public confidence and consideration ought to outweigh a million times the breath of rumor and slander, or even the possibility of adverse interpretation of the meaning of a phrase. Hoar says the republican party has been growing better and better.

WILL VOTE FOR BLAINE AND LOGAN

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The Tribune's Wheeling, W. Va., special says Colonel John Swan of Charleston, a cousin of General Grant and an ex-confederate who until now has prominently proclaimed himself an unreconstructed rebel, comes out in the Intelligencer in a long letter addressed to "My comrades and young men of the south," in which he declares his intention to support Blaine and Logan. He gives his reasons, and among them are the [illegible] of the candidates on the tariff, the vacillating policy of the democrats on the question, and the refusal of democratic congressmen to support the republican appropriation bill to increase the navy.

TEXAS GREENBACKERS

GALVESTON, Aug. 26.—The News' Waco special says: The state greenback convention convened to-day. About twenty delegates were present. It was decided to put a full Butler West electoral ticket in the field. [illegible] electors at large are J. D. [illegible] and G. H. Jenkins. The platform opposes lease [illegible] the school lands in larger tracts than 640 acres; favors the policy of selling school lands in small tracts on long time, and advocates the regulation of railroad freights. No nominations for state officers were made. It is generally understood that the greenbackers will support G. Washington Jones, the independent candidate, for governor.

RED HOT CAMPAIGN IN TEXAS

GALVESTON, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—There is a movement on foot in Texas to combine the free grass men against Ireland, whose election to the governorship will not be a mere walk over. Washington Jones has announced himself an independent candidate and is for free grass forever. Northwest Texas will poll 30,000 votes, nine-tenths of which are democratic, and it they are solid for Jones with the combined greenback and republican vote, there are many who believe he will defeat Ireland. From present indications Ireland and Jones will be the only candidates for governor this year, and the campaign will be red hot.

BUTLER AND A NEW PARTY

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The Sun's [illegible] says: The most notable meeting of the campaign will probably be that held here Saturday evening at Union Square, in the full blaze of the electric lights and of Butler's presence. What an assemblage it will be! At least a hundred thousand souls will throng the square and its approaches. The enthusiasm and ardor of the crowd will be glowing. [illegible] there's a new organization for Butler to be known as the people's party, which will display more vitality than either of the old parties in the approaching progressive weeks of the campaign.

PROHIBITIONISTS IN EARNEST

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—The Times says: We commend the statement of St. John and Daniel to zealous Blaine republicans who criticise the view the Times has taken, that the prohibition movement is a wholesome one. It is entirely clear that the candidates and their supporters are profoundly in earnest and sincere. Republican party has hitherto ground out a candidate whose election that republicans believe would be a greater misfortune than his defeat. Why should they not vote their conviction?

BLAINE IS UNWELL

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 26.—Blaine's indisposition will render his departure for several days very doubtful. He is suffering from a bilious attack, [illegible] He at present keeps his room.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Specials say that Blaine is so decidedly unwell that he will not leave the house this week. The trouble is a cold and chills.

NEW MEXICO'S DELEGATE.

SANTA FE, N. M., Aug. 26.—The republican territorial convention met to-day to nominate a delegate to congress. Fourteen counties bolted. The regular republican convention nominated Judge L. B. Rutford [illegible] Santa Fe unanimously on the [illegible] ballot. The bolters will nominate Colonel [illegible] [illegible] L. Rynerson of Las Cruces to-night.

GIBBS ([illegible]) FOR ST. JOHN

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Ex-Governor Gibbs of Oregon [illegible] at a [illegible] meeting in a Harlem church last evening said that a vote for St. John would [illegible] [illegible] away a vote. Other speakers took a different view.

THE TURF

BONNER WILL BUY JAY EYE SEE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Robert Bonner said yesterday: "To-morrow I am going to see Jay Eye See at Prospect park. You know there is to be a [illegible] and I want to judge of his [illegible] before the trial of speed. If Jay Eye See [illegible] beat Maud S.'s time I will buy him if I can. Negotiations have begun. I find Van[derbilt]'s words true in sending me a receipt for the money for Maud S. He added: "You will find her simply [illegible]

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Hamilton Busbey, editor of Turf, Field and Farm, said to-day that it is true that Bonner has been negotiating for Jay Eye See through him. The contract has been drawn up. The conditions are not unreasonable. After Jay Eye See attempts to lower the record the matter will be settled.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—From the World of Wednesday: The great Jay Eye See trotting race against time which was to have taken place over the Prospect Park course yesterday has been postponed until to-morrow, and the race will then be of greater interest. It is a little gelding beats the record of Maud S.—2:09¾—he will belong to Mr. Bonner. If not Mr. Case will continue to own him. Bonner was in conference yesterday with Hamilton Busbey of the Turf, Field and Farm relative to the price to be offered for the rival of Maud S. It was definitely settled that if purchased he would take place within three weeks. Now that Bonner has Maud S., said Busbey, he does not particularly care for Jay Eye See. After the great record made at Providence I was empowered to offer a certain sum for the gelding, but at that time Mr. Case drew up a contract under which he would sell his champion upon the contract. If Jay Eye See does 2:09¾ to-morrow Bonner will get the refusal for a month. Then Maud S. will be put in training and in three weeks she will try to lower the record. If she fails Jay Eye See will belong to Bonner, who stands ready to meet the terms which are not unreasonable. But as long as Maud S. stands at the head he has no [illegible] and will not care to add to his stable.

[illegible] Aug. 26.—[illegible] will probably examine the [illegible] to learn the extent of [illegible] and [illegible] bodies are [illegible]

[illegible] Aug. 26.—The [illegible] which sunk [illegible] Tallapoosa says: I saw the steamer ahead a little [illegible] the lee port bow saw that she [illegible] lights were burning right as it steamer [illegible] I saw the steamer was swinging across our bow and saw a little of her [illegible] green and mastheads [illegible] and masthead lights and then in a few minutes the vessels struck. Second mate Frazer [illegible] testified to the steamer changing her course, causing the collision. Samuel Judgett, who was at the wheel, says the schooner's course was not altered, and just before the collision he saw the green light and then the red light. After the collision both lights of the schooner were found burning brightly.

DROWNED.

GREENFIELD, Mass., Aug. 26.—Three young English students at the Moody school were drowned while bathing last evening.

When a man is escorting his wife and children to the depot, where he will bid them good bye for a month or so in the country, he should be careful to provide them with a bottle of Allen's Lung Balsam, the best remedy in the world for coughs and colds.

IN WALL STREET.

Strangely Fluctuating Stock Market with Closing Prices Still Lower than the Day Before

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Governments strong and higher; railways quiet; stocks very irregular but very weak. Union Pacific was conspicuous at the opening for a rise of 1¾. The remainder of the active list after a fractional decline in first rates became strong, and higher in sympathy with the rise in Union Pacific, then dropped down to [illegible] and later rallied to [illegible] but subsequently dropped to [illegible] Con shares were also weak, especially Lackawanna, which broke 3 per cent. The remainder of the list declined [illegible] During the afternoon the market was at first firm, then featureless. The final sales of the market were weak at or near the lowest figures of the day. Compared with last night the closing prices are ¼ to 2¼ lower, except Louisville and Nashville, which is [illegible] higher; New York Central unchanged.

COMPLETELY BANKRUPT

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—From the World of Wednesday: William J. Hutchinson was not at his office yesterday. He is said to be at his cottage at Sea Bright prostrated by his manifold misfortunes. It is less than three years ago since Hutchinson ran up $2,000,000 in a Hannibal and St. Joe corner. By his peculiar transactions as broker for John R. Duff, which were considered to be fraudulent, he was expelled from the stock exchange. After making restitution to Duff to the amount of $750,000, he had a clear fortune of $1,250,000, yet in the brief period since that time Hutchinson has succeeded in spending nearly all that vast sum, and after paying his indebtedness it is declared he will not have a dollar. He owes nearly $[illegible] on the street, and it is doubtful if he can liquidate these. In [illegible] with the assistance of his wife, who has a large fortune in her own right.

CRIMINAL NOTES

THE NEGRO TROUBLES IN GEORGIA

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Full particulars of the disturbance at Dawson, Georgia, yesterday, preceding the hanging of Clarke, show a bitter feeling between whites and negroes. Since the fall of April there have been eighteen rapes upon white women in Georgia by negroes, who have been lynched or executed by law, and three awaiting trial. The negroes, notwithstanding the enormity of Clarke's crime, the negroes got it into their heads that his conviction was a persecution. His sentence to hang on Monday instead of the traditional Friday was regarded as a further evidence in that direction. Fully 700 negroes were at the station and indulged in a noisy demonstration as the train arrived. The troops were about 100 strong. The infantry were formed with fixed bayonets while the artillery unlimbered two cannon. The negroes fell back and the troops [illegible] to jail. Two or three bricks were thrown when the word was passed and the troops were [illegible] A panic seized the mob, which retreated yelling, trampling each other down.

MINERS ARRESTED FOR TRESPASS

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Aug. 26.—Thirty-four more camping coal miners were arrested this morning for trespassing on railroad company property. They were [illegible] and will be taken to Washington jail in wagons this afternoon. The wives of [illegible] twenty persons came [illegible] [illegible] this morning and begged to be sent to jail with their husbands, as they said they had nothing to live on but a little [illegible] Their request was not granted. Citizens are very indignant at the wholesale arrests which were made without warrants. It is probable that a public meeting denouncing the action of the officers will be called. Four hundred new recruits are expected to arrive in camp this afternoon. Reports from [illegible] indicate the third pool indicates a serious break in the strike. One hundred and fifty men are said to have gone to work this morning, and others are weakening and are expected to give in before the close of the week.

BOOMERS ARRIVED

FORT SMITH, Ark., Aug. 26.—Captain Payne, the Oklahoma boomer, and seven of his associates, who were arrested at Rock Falls Indian Territory by General Hatch some days ago, arrived here yesterday in charge of Lieutenant Jackson and a detachment of the Ninth United States cavalry. They were not delivered to the authorities at Fort Smith as was the original intention, but by direction from Caldwell, Kansas, Lieutenant Jackson will take them to Fort Scott, Kansas, where they will be placed in charge of United States officers.

A WOMAN SHOT

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Jennie Tracy was shot by William Roberts yesterday. She was only 14 years old and the daughter of a farmer, while Roberts was a dissipated laborer, who persecuted her with attentions. After firing the shot at her he attempted to shoot himself. A crowd gathered and disarmed Roberts, and would have lynched him on the spot but for the resolute defense by the officers. Jennie was shot through the lungs and her death is only a matter of time.

THE ALBION BANK SWINDLE

[illegible] N. Y., Aug. 26.—It is stated on good authority that Warner, president of the First National Bank of Albion, issued notes on that bank payable to an amount which exceeds the value of the real estate. It is thought deposits will realize nothing. The amount of county funds on deposit has not been divulged. A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Warner, who is thought to be in Canada.

RAILROAD NOTES

AN IMPORTANT MEETING

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Special.—The most important meeting since the organization of the transcontinental pool association will be held at Saratoga on Tuesday of next week. Not only will the question of the existing grievance between rival California lines come up for discussion, but it will be decided whether the association can continue to exist after the withdrawal of the Texas Pacific and Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe from the combination. It is believed that the latter road will [illegible] additional facilities afforded it by the recent purchase of a portion of the Southern Pacific's track will be only too glad to enter the pool. On the other hand it is claimed on excellent authority that all the California freight lines are anxious to see the present pool association dissolved and a new pool formed [illegible] a fairer distribution of [illegible] and compel rates to be held firmer. As matters now stand competing lines are able to hold their own, and that is all. The Union Pacific is no longer carrying the bulk of the freight and [illegible] cutting rates still goes quietly on. It is maintained by the railroads that the present pool is simply an agreement to maintain rates and equally that none of the lines is in a way to afford a highly [illegible] war. A [illegible] important matter which will come up for discussion at Saratoga is the distribution of the Oregon business. The near completion of the Oregon Short Line will precipitate this, and also the negotiations in progress for the purchase of the Oregon and California line by the Central Pacific. [illegible] of the withdrawal of the Atlantic and Pacific and Santa Fe terminates September [illegible] and that the Texas Pacific, October 1. The action of the latter road is regarded as of much importance, as it has carried much California freight. [illegible] the freight from this city to San Francisco [illegible] now consists of only [illegible] Agents state that the [illegible] are clear all through and freight is being forwarded without any delay. An increase of business is looked for about the middle of next month, as at present both clipper and overland freights are about as dull as they can be. The action of the Saratoga meeting is awaited with interest and anxiety by the different routes. It is understood that the meeting will last three days.

SPORTING NOTES.

DISAPPOINTED GORE SEEKERS

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—The Files-Chandler alleged prize fight occurred to-night in a livery stable on State street in the presence of about ninety sports, who had been induced to pay Jeff Dunn twenty dollars apiece for the privilege. The contestants, Tom Chandler and [illegible] Files, wore small soft gloves. It is not known what the stakes were. Four rounds were fought, the first three of which was so much cautious sparring and so little heavy slugging as to disgust the sports who were expectantly waiting to see gore. The fourth round opened with [illegible] hard hitting, and Chandler managed to force Files [illegible] ropes. While in this position Files received a rousing blow on the neck that sufficed to double him up for more than the ten seconds required by the Queensberry rules. The fight was over in less than fifteen minutes from the time it started.

CHALLENGE BETWEEN McCOY AND SULLIVAN

[illegible] Aug. 26.—Dominick McCaffrey of Pittsburg, who is eager to meet Sullivan [illegible] the fight with [illegible] McCoy [illegible] theater last night has issued a challenge. He says: "I hereby challenge John L. Sullivan to a glove competition of four or six rounds with small gloves under the Marquis of Queensberry rules for $1,000 or $[illegible] a side and the gate receipts, the winner to take all, the match to be decided within six weeks in New York city, where we are both [illegible] [illegible] If Mr. Sullivan does not accept this challenge I will feel disappointed, unless I can secure a match with John L. Sullivan, should I have here [illegible] all my challengers. But [illegible] after the [illegible] Mr. [illegible] I am prepared to make [illegible] the [illegible] amount of stakes he may desire."

ANOTHER PRIZE FIGHT

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—A prize fight has been arranged between Marine Thompson and Captain James C. Daly. Stakes $100 a side. The fight to be [illegible] rules of the London prize ring. It will take place within a hundred miles of New York in three weeks, after the Standard [illegible] fight.

THE FIRE RECORD

BEYOND CONTROL AND STILL BURNING

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 26.—The Times-Democrat's New Iberia special says: Fire broke out at 6:30 this evening in the rear of Lehman & Taylor's wholesale dry goods house, totally destroying the building and contents; also H. Coghenheim's residence and furniture store and half a dozen other buildings. The fire was past control at 9:40 P. M., and there is no telling when it will be extinguished. The loss will be heavy. The fire nearing the telegraph office, the operators had to leave the office. The origin of the fire was accidental. Joseph R. [illegible], foreman of Fire Company No. 1, was killed by an iron shutter falling on him. No later particulars up to midnight.

FOREIGN AFFAIRS.

China's Ability to Carry on a War Not Very Good.

THE EFFECT IN ENGLAND OF THE HOSTILITIES

French Newspapers Get Angry—Cholera Scare in Mexico—Chinese Gordon Going to Egypt—A Drunken English Lord

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Lieutenant Commander Barber of the United States navy is perhaps better informed concerning the condition of the Chinese army and navy than any other American. He spent several years in China in an official capacity, and had ample opportunity to become thoroughly acquainted with the military and naval defenses of that country. Lieutenant Barber after leaving China was offered the position now held by Lieutenant Maddox, instructor in the torpedo school about to be established by the Chinese government, but declined the offer. In a conversation with your correspondent to-day Lieutenant Barber said: The talk in the newspapers of the military and naval power of China is greatly overestimated. The only vessels of any account in the Chinese navy are the Zhen Yuan and Ting Yuan. These are considered the most remarkable ships in the world for their size, and they are not ironclads. They are remarkable in the fact that they carry very heavy guns for such small vessels. The Chinese navy consists of thirty-nine gunboats, six frigates, four torpedo boats and several small lightly armed river gunboats. She is now building three or four first-class ironclads in Germany, but they have not been allowed to come out of Germany, as it is against the international law to allow them to go out. In 1868 and 1871 four gunboats were completed for the Chinese government, of the British staunch type. They were the Alpha, Beta, Gamma and Delta. The first two are each 118 feet long and twenty-seven feet beam, with a mean draught of seven feet six inches and a displacement of 310 tons. The last two are 110 feet between perpendiculars by thirty feet beam, draught eight feet, and a displacement of 400 tons. They are schooner rigged with tripod masts and are propelled by twin screws.

THE ARMAMENT

The first two carry a 26½ ton gun and the other [illegible] guns of the British service pattern. In addition two 12 pounders are also carried and a machine gun of the Gatling type. The 26 ton gun is capable of penetrating 15¾ in. of iron in the thickness backed with ten inches of teak. Four more vessels were built on the type each with a [illegible] ton gun of the new type. These four are of substantially the same description and construction as the first four, except that they are built of steel, instead of iron, and are double ended. The stern and bow lines being [illegible] after the same model and are fitted with bow rudders which enable them to steam either backward or forward. These vessels are the Chen [illegible] Chen [illegible] Tei [illegible] and Tung [illegible]. Their guns are thirty-five ton muzzle-loading of the chambered pattern. They have a penetrating power of 37 per cent over the thirty-eight-ton guns. The powder charges which they burn are thirty-five pounds more than the heavy experimental charge used from the British 12½ inch thirty-eight ton gun at the Dreadnought. There have also been built in England for the Chinese navy eight small gunboats of from 100 to 300 tons displacement, each carrying from six to seven guns. At [illegible] arsenal there have been built thirty-seven composite gunboats, each having one seven or eight inch gun with other light pieces; one composite cruiser, one of eleven tons weight and three transports. There are also two frigates [illegible]

TORPEDO DEFENSES

The Chinese government has established a torpedo school at [illegible] which is a short distance from [illegible] where they are educating a class of torpedo officers and mechanics. They have had a number of Germans and Frenchmen and one or two Americans instructing both their army and navy, an American having charge of the torpedo school, but there are none of these [illegible] who will be of any aid to them in the war with France, unless they resign from their own service and become Chinese citizens. [illegible] talk about their having [illegible] [illegible] They only commenced their efforts in the [illegible] torpedo defenses [illegible] and [illegible] the war with Russia a few years ago, and they never have exhibited any [illegible] or taken time [illegible] to put their torpedo defenses in a thoroughly reliable condition, which is a great [illegible] [illegible] account of the shallowness of the water [illegible] State China is the best country for torpedo defenses in the world. As the trouble with Russia was settled without going to war, the Chinese government [illegible] [illegible] preparations. Li Hung Chang [illegible] He has always been [illegible] with regard to making any military or naval preparations. He there[illegible] always been a party of progressive views and is connected with the party of [illegible] country. The present [illegible] Li Hung Chang, who is viceroy of [illegible] He is the ablest statesman in China and the most progressive.

TWO POLITICAL PARTIES

The two parties have about equal influence with the [illegible] in favor with the representative [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] that [illegible] [illegible] by [illegible] [illegible] about twice as much as any other nation to get half the amount. For example if the progressionists get the money for a [illegible] of war, the other party will have [illegible] the same amount [illegible] in the building of [illegible] junk boats equipped with bows and arrows and other implements of war in use 800 years before Christ. They have some very good fortifications and some good guns, but their army men, who [illegible] fight, are not properly organized or drilled. The army is [illegible] in China [illegible] [illegible] volunteers [illegible] army. They are a nation of traders. They do not have any ambition for war as a warrior [illegible] not have near the amount of [illegible] that a scholar does. The literary men contemn soldiers socially. No one can tell how large the Chinese army is. They have untold legions of men that they could summon, but nobody knows how many they really have because their system of representation is such that no one can make calculations. The only soldiers who are of any value are those who are drilled by foreigners. They number about 40,000 or 50,000 men. It is impossible to estimate the militia because in that country the governor of a province receives the pay for troops and very frequently they do not have any troops until just before the viceroy arrives on a tour of inspection.

THE MILITIA

A short time before the expected arrival the governor gets a lot of men together and they are drilled [illegible] and day so that when the viceroy inspects them they are able to go through the movements. During the time they are being drilled they are paid about a cent a day and after the inspection they are [illegible] and the governor draws and pockets the [illegible] The Chinese soldiers do not fear death, but will themselves [illegible] a stigma. They would just as leave walk away from a gun as not, and to run away from an enemy is not considered disgraceful. The most important arsenal and navy yard is at [illegible] is very complete. There is no doubt but that China could be developed into a first class military and naval power were it not [illegible] [illegible] several pursuits. If [illegible] man like Li Hung Chang [illegible] the French navy would never have got a footing in Tonquin.

Lieutenant Barber thinks the French will have no trouble in whipping the Chinese. He says the European and American officers will leave [illegible] [illegible] and without them the Chinese will [illegible] no good. The only way foreigners can remain in the service of China is to become Chinese citizens, [illegible] they sign when they enter the service [illegible] they will serve China only so long as she is not engaged in a war with their own country or a power with which their country is at peace.

EFFECTS OF THE WAR ON TRADE

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A London special cable on the Franco-Chinese war says the effect is most disastrous to trade. Business is flat and the markets are all depressed. The only exchange favorably affected was Lloyd's, which was crowded with ship owners through the day. None of the existing policies included war risks. Hence a lively business was done in war premiums, which were quoted from a half crown to five shillings advance, or [illegible] per cent. This, however, was only on goods strictly not contraband of war. On all cargoes of arms, saltpetre or other similar munitions a premium of 10 shillings per hundred pounds was charged. There was considerable bargaining as to other goods not absolutely war material but useful to the belligerents. It is claimed by insurers that until France has actually declared war against China and given the usual notice to the neutral powers she cannot confiscate goods under a neutral flag, and if any such are destroyed there would be good ground for a claim against France.

The feeling of German houses here must [illegible] which have a large eastern trade is that the French are taking literally Bismarck's advice to blaze away at the Chinese without meddling with the treaty powers. It is a fact that Bismarck has wanted France to conduct operations so as not to interfere with neutral commerce.

LATEST FROM FOO CHOW

SHANGHAI, Aug. 26.—Advices from Foo Chow to the 24th received at 12 this evening confirm the reports of the destruction of the whole Chinese fleet. The French lost five men, including an American pilot killed on board the heavily armored French warship Volta. The French fleet was not damaged.

ADMIRAL COURBET'S MOVEMENTS

PARIS, Aug. 26.—It is believed after Admiral Courbet has destroyed the forts on the river between the arsenal and the mouth, he would join Admiral Lespes before Kee Lung to arrange with him for the occupation of that place. There is talk of an expedition from Tonquin to Yunnan at the end of [illegible] [illegible] unless China accepts France's terms.

FRANCE AND GERMANY UNITED

BERLIN, Aug. 26.—Baron De Courcel, the French ambassador, has returned from a visit to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] with Bismarck. It is believed [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the Franco-Chinese difficulty.

FORTS BOMBARDED

LONDON, Aug. 26.—The Times' Foo Chow dispatch dated yesterday says: There has been a heavy bombardment of the Mingan forts by the French fleet this morning. The forts are believed to have been silenced. No attack has been made on the Kin Pai forts.

MAILS ALL RIGHT.

HONG KONG, Aug. 26.—The French outward mail boat stopped here to-day and transferred her mails to a neutral steamer. The immediate attack will probably be made on Woo Sung in order to clear an entrance to the port of Shanghai.

AN ANGRY FRENCH PRESS

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Paris papers indignantly repel the charges made by the London Times, that cruelty is exercised by Admiral Courbet at Foo Chow, and indulge in violent abuse of the English. Voltaire and Temps say France is in no need to exculpate itself to the country which set fire to Alexandria. Admiral Courbet [illegible] Chinese gunboats because he could not [illegible] by [illegible] them. The République Française approves of Admiral Courbet's energetic course. All he did was to obey orders in the hope of effecting prompt settlement of the existing difficulties. Cassagnac advocates an alliance between France and Germany.

WILL BE RECALLED

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The Figaro says General Millot will be recalled from Tonquin, because he is considered responsible for the difficulties since the Tien Tsin treaty was made.

FORMAL DECLARATION EXPECTED

PARIS, Aug. 26.—La France states it is expected that China will to-morrow make a formal declaration of war against France.

FEARS FOR MISSIONARIES

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Great fears are expressed for the safety of the Catholic missionaries in China.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Chen Ki Hong, secretary of the Chinese embassy, remains here.

THE CHOLERA EPIDEMIC

THOUGHT TO HAVE REACHED MEXICO

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—A special from Las Vegas, New Mexico, August 23, says: The captain of the port of Guaymas has received an official notice from the minister of war that a vessel has arrived at Salinas Cruz with the Asiatic cholera on board. He instructs the captain of the port to allow no one to land from vessels arriving from Salinas Cruz or from other ports lower on the coast. The official notice bears date of City of Mexico, August 18th. Similar notices have been received at Mazatlan, San Blas, Altata, Manzanillo and other Pacific coast ports. Salinas Cruz is the chief port for the state of Tehuantepec and lies 2000 miles south of Guaymas on the Pacific, and it is considered unaccountable that any person could arrive there from the infected districts of Europe. It is generally believed the vessel in question is from China and brings the original cholera germs. The news causes great uneasiness along the coast cities, it being the first information of the arrival of Asiatic cholera on this continent.

A SAD PICTURE

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—The state department received [illegible] from Mason, the United States consul at Marseilles, a report upon the situation at that place and Toulon since the abatement of the cholera epidemic. He says the finances at Toulon and Marseilles have been strained to the utmost in cleaning streets and tenements and caring for the sick and burying the dead. The presence of impending financial ruin weighs heavily upon the business communities, and even the ordinary resources of charity are seriously curtailed. The tide of returning fugitives has just set in, and no description can picture the wretchedness and destitution that hourly exists.

DEATHS FROM CHOLERA

PARIS, Aug. 26.—There were [illegible] deaths from cholera at Marseilles last night, two at Toulon.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—The cholera is in Corsica. Four deaths are reported from Ajaccio. Several persons have been nearly killed from over fumigation at the Italian frontier.

GENEVA, Aug. 26.—There are no cases of cholera here.

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Deaths from cholera in the south of France for the twenty four hours ending last night were: Pyrenees Orientales 15, Herault [illegible] Gard 2, Aude 6.

[illegible] Aug. 26.—There was one death from cholera in the city to-day. The hospital report is: New cases [illegible] 4 discharged, [illegible] under treatment [illegible]

MARSEILLES, Aug. 26.—There were twelve deaths from cholera here to-day.

THE PESTILENCE IN ITALY

ANTICS OF AN ARISTOCRAT

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—A London cable says: Lord [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] He amused himself by getting drunk and [illegible] He [illegible] at Deptford and [illegible] [illegible] with the manager. A [illegible] [illegible] his Lordship out of the place, [illegible] [illegible] he was hauled over to [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] before the magistrate. Calling the prosecutor in open court with a term of abuse, calling him a scoundrel, a wretch [illegible] [illegible] When rebuked by the magistrate [illegible] his Lordship became highly indignant and [illegible] [illegible] the police with violence until brought to his senses by a threat of committal. Finally he was [illegible] [illegible] his [illegible] for six months.

FAVORABLE PROGRESS

ROME, Aug. 26.—Negotiations between Switzerland and the Vatican are making favorable progress. Papal delegates at Berne are instructed to make reasonable concessions.

BLAINE IN INDIANA.

He Will Go to Indianapolis to Testify and Perhaps Make Speeches

Special to St. Paul Pioneer Press

AUGUSTA, Me., Aug. 21.—Blaine does not propose to let the grass grow under his feet or [illegible] any of the advantages in Indiana which his prompt action in bringing a libel suit against the Indianapolis Sentinel has given him. He proposes to have the case pushed to an issue if possible, and will do all in his power to overcome the legal delays which the defendant will doubtless employ to interpose. He sees his advantage and will not allow any milk and water treatment to induce him to withdraw the action. If he goes to Indiana to testify in the case, and the general understanding is that he proposes to, take advantage of the occasion to make some telling speeches while there. He is entirely satisfied with the outlook in New York, which he considers safe. He regards Ohio and Indiana as the battle ground of the campaign. Advices from his friends in Indiana since Hendricks' return are to the effect that the Indiana democracy are very despondent and nearly on the run already, and his admirers believe that if he were to go to Indianapolis as the defender of his wife's good name and either at or before the trial of the case, deliver a few of his magnificent speeches to the Hoosier democracy, it would be turned into a full rout.

CAMPAIGN DRIFT.

Mr. Beecher refuses to be shaken from his allegiance to Cleveland by the course of the New York Independent. He is quite convinced that the Halpin episode was only a little one and should not count.

The New York Times is greatly worried over the [illegible] [illegible]. But it will only divert votes enough from the democratic candidate to elect Blaine.

If what has been said against Cleveland is false he can yet win his case by libel suits inside of two years. But perhaps Cleveland cares nothing for money.

A [illegible] Illinois soldier up [illegible] asked whether he would vote for Cleveland and Hendricks replied: "Not till that leg grows out," and added, "I don't propose to fight on one side and vote on the other."

The widows have been a great bother to Grover, and the Widow Butler appears to be the fly in his ointment just now.

[illegible] has been interviewing the news dealers in [illegible] and has learned that the sale of Harper's Weekly has been greatly injured by the course taken by it regarding the political campaign.

Butler was cocked and primed to riddle Cleveland's letter of acceptance to shreds, but Butler sorrowfully admits now the letter is published that he can find nothing to fight. "Shall I recall Cleveland's position on the tariff?" he ironically asks.

Alexander Sullivan, who declined re-election to the presidency of the Irish National League, desiring to be free handed that he might enter the pending canvass in support of Blaine, will carry with him the [illegible] of Irishmen who are proud to claim Mr. Sullivan as a [illegible] leader.

[illegible] [illegible] subject for a Harper's Weekly cartoon [illegible] suggested that would be a great hit. A full page picture showing the lone widow in trouble knocking at Cleveland's door and demanding that her honor be vindicated, while those two married men are seen in the background gleefully whispering: "There she is, but it's all right, Grover will father the unborn and no scandal will attach to us and our families." Such a picture as that would have an enormous sale.

Narrow and Incompetent.

New York Sun.

Democratic success under a narrow and incompetent leader would be like the last flame that blazes up from a fire before its total extinction. It could only result in utter or disaster and disintegration, and instead of any permanent benefit being derived from it the next election would lead to the re-establishment of the republicans, and their pernicious rule would be prolonged beyond calculation.

The total loss by the recent fire at Spokane Falls is $41,700; total insurance, $22,600.

A PLETHORA OF SHIPS

New York Shipping List

Shipbuilding in Great Britain has with a recent years occupied much the same relative position with respect to industrial interests that railroad building has attained in this country. In both instances depression has resulted from over production and the related trades and industries have found themselves handicapped by a capacity to produce and sell far in excess of the normal demands of trade and commerce. Railroads have been built in this country where there was not sufficient traffic to support them, ships have been constructed in Great Britain far beyond the tonnage requirements of the world's commerce, and now both ships and railroads are eating themselves up for the want of employment, foundries, rolling mills, machine shops and ship yards are closed and an over-expanded industry is plunged to the depths of depression. How far both social and commercial interests in this country have been affected by the railroad building craze of 1880 [illegible] the events of the past six months have amply demonstrated in the rapid decline of the value of railroad securities and the stagnation of the iron trade, but the burden of an enormous fleet of unemployed ships, together with idle ship yards, has not been brought home so forcibly here as in Great Britain. In no branch of industry has the existing depression in Europe been more conspicuous than in iron and shipbuilding, and in no department of commercial activity has the prevailing stagnation of trade been more keenly felt than among the shipping trade. The first has been due to the rapid falling off in the orders for new ships on account of the over production of all kinds of ocean going craft. The shrinkage in ship building has been significantly pointed out in the half yearly circular of Mr. John White of London, who says: Orders for new steamers last year gradually decreased to the extent of 60 per cent between the first and third quarters and a further 50 per cent between the third and fourth quarters; the depression has continued until with the exception of an odd contract to replace a steamer for a special trade or a sailing vessel here and there and at prices that will not recoup the cost, no orders have recently been placed. Primarily the cause of so steady and great a decline as this has been low freights, which have reached figures in some instances that do not cover running expenses, and accordingly owners have preferred to lay their vessels up rather than run them at a positive loss. But why are ocean freights all over the world so unremunerative? Partly because of the bad condition of trade everywhere, partly because of keen competition, but chiefly because of a plethora of ships. In ten years English ship owners have doubled their tonnage, this is from [illegible] tons in 18[illegible] to [illegible] tons in 18[illegible] while the total tonnage (steam and sail) built in English yards for English and foreign ship owners in [illegible] aggregated [illegible] tons. Furthermore there was constructed last year upon the Clyde a total tonnage of [illegible] against [illegible] in 18[illegible]. The above quoted authority goes on to remark in connection with the large building: "The fact must be kept in view that the large fleet of sailing vessels of [illegible] has considerably [illegible] reduced [illegible] vessels owned in the British colonies and their [illegible] the apparent [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] the United Kingdom [illegible] being [illegible] from [illegible] tons in 1877 to [illegible] in 188[illegible] The effective power or carrying capacity however is really proportionately very much greater than this comparison would indicate in consequence of the extensive substitution of steam for sailing ships. The consequence of such a condition of affairs necessarily has been a great strain upon the shipping trade and renders ship property not only unremunerative but unsaleable. And herein is to be found an explanation of the enthusiasm of the British advocates of free ships for the United States. To find a market for these idle ships, which the defeated Cox amendment to the Dingley shipping bill came so near providing, would have proved a happy deliverance for our British friends, but fortunately we have escaped the carrying of this burden. Nor is the prospect of an early revival of these depressed interests either hopeful or encouraging. An improved condition of trade and commerce throughout the world will no doubt, in time bring some relief, and marine losses must eventually have their effect in restoring the equilibrium of supply and demand, but waiting for these events means a heavy loss in depreciation, interest and charges to the shipowner and some what dismal prospect for the shipbuilder.

Mr. Plunkett Surprised

Mr. Isham Plunkett of Carroll county says that a short while since he was in his orchard gathering peaches. As he approached the house on his return from the orchard with a pair of twin peaches he was met by a servant, who remarked: "There are three [illegible] here [illegible] holding up the peaches, "there are only two." "Yes, there are," responded the informant, "there's three." Well, to make a long story short, his wife [illegible] [illegible] He had three new responsibilities in the [illegible]

It is really most discreditable [illegible] [illegible] Jon Trull [illegible] that the King of Sweden should be obliged to reside at a hotel during his stay in London. When the prince of Wales visited Sweden a few years ago he was received with the most splendid hospitality, and everything was done to render his stay in the country enjoyable; but although Buckingham palace is standing empty except one suite [illegible] [illegible] occupied by the crown prince and crown princess of Germany, [illegible] [illegible] to take up his quarters there was for the moment forgotten by [illegible] Swede. Even if his majesty has not been dispos[ed] to accept hospitality it would have been well to offer it. The English court has obtained an unenviable notoriety [illegible] for its miserably meager hospitality, [illegible] avoiding the large amount the queen receives from the country, it is surely not too much to expect that proper attention should be paid to royal visitors of distinction.

"I was walking up Broadway," said Carl Schurz at a recent dinner in New York, "when I saw a good looking massively built man coming toward me. I knew who it was at once, though I had never taken in his actual presence before. I could not help smiling at the excellence of this gentleman's likeness as portrayed by the caricaturists. But evidently he recognized me from the many amusing pictures which have been drawn of me, for his face was, like mine, on the full grin. We knew each other at once. We had been pictorially introduced. We both laughed, simultaneously touched our hats and passed on. The other man was John Kelly."

Catholicism Rampant

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26.—[Special.]—Professor Senger of the girls' high school, who was suspended last week on a charge made by Archbishop Alemany of the Catholic church, has been reinstated. The charge was that Senger in commenting on a history lesson had made statements prejudicial to the Catholic church, and at the investigation last night it was proved that Senger had simply set forth the causes leading to the reformation. The board did not consider this a sufficient occasion to dismiss Senger, and the decision was made accordingly. Father Montgomery, a well known priest, addressed the investigation committee on behalf of the Catholic church and gave its theory of the case in the following words: "The question before the committee was not whether the statement of the history text books were true or false, but whether sectarian teaching was to be permitted in the schools. Clearly the ground covered by Professor Senger in his class room by his argument was sectarian in its nature. I have no personal feeling against Professor Senger, and contend only for principle." The case has excited a great deal of attention among both Catholics and Protestants, and, as might be expected, the difference of opinion was drawn at the denominational line. The Catholics are greatly chagrined at the action of the board.

DESPOTISM OF PARTIES.

Under this title Mr. Herbert Tuttle contributes an interesting but rather exaggerated article to the Atlantic Monthly for September. His object is to show that a party is not commonly understood to be a body of men united in support of a political principle or set of principles, but according to our habits of speech and acts of legislation we are beginning to think parties are "actual corporations susceptible of legal definition, endowed for certain purposes with what lawyers call juridical personality; not indeed exactly capable of sueing and being sued, but stopping only short of that, and in many respects entitled to claim the same protection from the laws, and to enforce the same obedience from the minority to the majority, as is the case of all legally organized joint-stock companies." This last is shown by the laws enacted governing primary elections—in which a party is recognized as a corporate existence. From all this the writer quoted concludes that party with us now, through caucuses, organizations, etc., has become a thing of despotism, against which Washington and Webster warned us. The trouble with Mr. Tuttle is that he is fighting definitions and not looking at actual facts. However admirable party machinery may be, it must run mainly in the way public opinion demands.

Therefore, instead of being despotic, parties are really timid in the face of public opinion. In fact, it is small minorities, not majorities, that are despotic. Never perhaps in the history of the country have party lines been less closely drawn or party organization less able to hold in its strong bonds former adherents. The fact is, alleged party despotism is running to party chaos in some directions, and in others to more or less disintegration. Let us look at the situation and see how far party despotism rules the hour. What is the meaning of the democratic situation? Why is Butler, who was one of the central figures of the democratic national convention, a bolter to-day and a candidate for the presidency? And then there is disgruntled John Kelly, who has the highest office in the country almost at his disposal. The meaning of it all is that the factions in the democratic party this year are almost as powerful as the party itself. Butler is running because he was not himself nominated. Kelly sulks in his wigwam because he could not nominate his own candidate. On the other hand there is a revolt against Blaine—the Boston and New York independents. This may not be serious, but still it points to the fact that the so-called "despotism of party" has neither local habitation nor name in actual politics. This November there will be republicans who will vote the democratic ticket for the first time in their lives, and there will be democrats, unless all the signs of the times fail, who will vote for the republican candidates. According to dispatches in all the daily papers, there is a good sized rebellion among the citizens of Irish birth, and Blaine and Logan clubs are being formed in states and cities hundreds and thousands of miles apart. This goes to show that the sentiment among them in favor of the republican ticket is general, and not the result of political management. Again, Butler will unquestionably poll a heavy democratic vote, and it is not improbable, will carry off some republicans. His candidature may help Mr. Blaine and may elect him. Party ties in fact have been seldom as frail as they are at present. In short, looking at actual facts, it seems almost funny to hear talk about party despotism. The despotism of the bolters—of the minority—is just now the most patent fact of the political situation.

A FEARFUL EXAMPLE.

The democratic party is nowhere and in no way making a worse exhibition of its character than in the support of Carter Harrison for governor in the state of Illinois. Mr. Harrison was elected mayor of Chicago by the power and as the representative of all the most disreputable elements in the city—the groggeries, the gambling houses, the dens of vice, and all that is opposed to good order, decency and restraint—and in his administration he has thoroughly carried out the purpose of his election, except so far as he has had a quarrel over the amount of blackmail for toleration. In his personal habits and character he is also a thorough representative of his class, without the discretion which has sometimes prevented persons of the kind from making public exhibitions of their vices while in official station. On several occasions he has brought contempt and disgrace upon himself and the city he represents by his wild and maudlin utterances on public occasions, and he is regarded with mingled feelings of derision and shame by the honorable and reputable citizens of Chicago. The speeches which he delivered in this region a year ago, during the celebration of the opening of the Northern Pacific railroad, were by no means the worst he has made, but they were so low in their tone and so offensive in their manner as to disgust many of his fellow-guests, as well as many of the people of the country. Under his administration as mayor of Chicago there has been a reign of license of every kind, the open flaunting of vice, Sabbath desecration, unpunished crime, and everything that could disgrace and injure the city, until it has more than disputed the palm of misgovernment with the crowded metropolis of foreign vice, New York. But notwithstanding his record he received the unanimous nomination of the democratic party, and, so far as we know, is now receiving its unanimous support. Such an exhibition of the spirit of a party which is in a crisis of its fate, and when the chances of its success depend upon its good behavior, cannot fail to increase the distrust of the people in its ability or desire to reform itself or to reform the politics of the country.

General Butler clearly shows in his address to his constituents that he thinks they are as unscrupulous as he is. He advises them in framing their electoral ticket to make a fusion in all the states with the supposed minority. Thus, he says, "you will show your strength and hold the balance of power." The result in the event of the success of the fusion ticket would be that Butler would get a number of electors proportioned to the number of votes thrown to him, and neither Blaine nor Cleveland would be elected. He would then hold the balance of power, and the electors chosen to carry out this fusion instead of being "reputable men," as he believes, would be on the make just as he is, and the question as to which particular candidate they would sell out would depend upon the inducements. No candidate ever treated his constituents with so little respect. He tells them that he thinks they would be governed by the same selfish motive as that by which he is controlled.

It is interesting to notice that the Indianapolis Sentinel, which is to be hauled into court for its dirty campaign slander, is the same paper that started the accusations against Blaine in the Little Rock and Fort Smith case. Its proprietors may make the discovery this time that the pitcher which goes too often to the well is in great danger of experiencing a smash. It is interesting also to notice that the accusations in the Little Rock and Fort Smith case were started at the instance of Harrison, the Indianapolis banker, who has just shut up shop and swindled a host of depositors.

The Standard thinks it very probable that Oregon will cast its electoral vote for Cleveland. Now here is a strong probability that an esteemed contemporary is mistaken. We know now how to estimate the political judgment that gives New York, Ohio, Indiana certainly, and Iowa, Illinois and Kansas probably to Cleveland. Always before an election the lightning calculator of the average democratic arithmetic man can beat the count of the country maid, with her milk pail and a patent incubator thrown in.

THE BEVERAGE WHICH CHEERS, ETC.

A telegram from New York announced several days ago that a syndicate of tea importers in that city was about to cease purchases in China and to transfer its trade to Yokohama, Kanagawa and other parts in Japan. Why eastern importers have remained so long in ignorance of the real merit of Japan teas, as well as their comparative cheapness, has always been a mystery; but perhaps there have been old commercial alliances between our Atlantic ports and the Chinese packing houses in Canton, Shanghai, Hongkong and Whampoa, that are not so easily broken. With our Pacific coast men of business, to think and to act occupy about a like space of time; but the merchants of our eastern seaboard are more conservative and harder to turn from a beaten path.

The Pacific coast snuus began their trade with Japan shortly before the outbreak of "the late unpleasantness," and the chief mover in the project was a pioneer auctioneer of San Francisco, named James Wainright, who went over to Japan in 1860 and found out several points of interest to San Francisco. Up to that time the tea consumed in California had been brought wholly from China, where it was purchased with Mexican dollars for which the tea buyer had to pay a premium in San Francisco varying from four to twelve per cent. Wainright represented to the English houses doing business in Yokohama that they could sell large quantities of tea in San Francisco if they would only take American gold at par and not force the Californians to buy Mexican dollars at a burdensome premium. They seemed to like the idea and sent Wainright back to San Francisco to conduct negotiations for them; and the result was that in less than two years the Japanese teas divided the market with those grown in China, so far as San Francisco was concerned. The Chinese, becoming alarmed at the prospective loss of their trade with California, agreed to take California gold at par, which had the effect at once of killing off the premium on Mexican silver. But it was too late—the murder was out—and the moon-eyed denizens of the Central flowery land have never been able to regain their lost trade with California.

Of course there are some brands of tea imported from China, which will continue to be a source of revenue to our custom houses for many years to come. All efforts to supplant these brands by importations from Japan have been so far unavailing. They bring all kinds of fabulous prices, particularly the sort which comes in tied bunches, frequently sold here for six and seven dollars per pound; and these kinds of teas are consumed here by wealthy Chinese. In some of the restaurants of this city the Chinese merchants pay as high as thirty cents per cup, holding less than one gill, for the decoction of this fragrant plant. And in many of our eastern cities there are white men who consider themselves connoisseurs in tea and who pay two or three dollars per pound for select brands.

But in the Pacific states the Japanese teas have gained a foothold so strong with a majority of consumers that they never can be dislodged. Selling all the way from fifty to ninety cents per pound, the teas of Hiogo and Kanagawa have ingratiated themselves upon the palates of the masses, and, having good flavor and cheapness on their side, will always find ready sale. For nearly quarter of a century they have held a strong grip upon the popular taste and it would be hard to supplant them even at the same prices. It seems strange, however, that our Atlantic cousins should have been so long in following up a California and Oregon custom that had both economy and good taste in its favor.

THE IRISH LEAGUE.

The action of the Irish National league of the United States at its recent meeting in Boston has been generally highly commended by the eastern press. It is the purpose of the league to create in Ireland "a complete national life, and the restoration of the people of Ireland to the possession and government of their native land." This means a repeal of the Union. The possession and government of a country by its own people is absolute sovereignty. This is the ideal and aim of the league, Ireland for the Irish, that is, absolute independence of England. This will not be granted, and it is just as certain that Ireland cannot conquer by arms her independence. The Irish sea presents very much the same geographical obstacle to a separation that the Mississippi river presented against the secession of the southern states, and England will never consent to the establishment of an independent power which will divide with her the possession of this sea. But much will be gained for Ireland by the agitation now going on. The moral influence of the league will be felt in England. No nation in these days can afford to ignore or despise the opinion of other nations. The sympathy expressed in this country will lead England to ask herself whether her authority in Ireland has been wisely and justly exercised. It can not be denied that the Gladstone government has endeavored to relieve Ireland, and has already accomplished much in this direction. But the Irish people are not satisfied with what he has done and attempted to do, and, in their dissatisfaction, they have been very unjust to one of the greatest benefactors of their race. While independence is not possible, Ireland should, at least, have the rights of Canada. But this degree of independence cannot be gained without a settlement of the land question. The demand of the league as to this cannot be regarded as unreasonable. The idle proprietors should give way to working proprietors, and the present struggle will continue until the ownership of the soil is placed upon a basis satisfactory to the Irish. Ireland will eventually gain a large and promising freedom, though not in our day, the freedom which the league demands.

NOT CHEAP FOR US.

Sugar is sharing with other staples an unwonted depression of values just now. That article has never been so cheap, and as a result the consumption in the United States has advanced from 63,074 tons a month in 1880 to 90,501 in 1884, or 43 per cent., while the population has grown only 12 per cent., so that the consumption has advanced 31 per cent., a growth due to the fall in price of one-third, from 9¼ to 6¼ cents a pound. Substantially, then, where 9 cents were spent on a pound now 9 cents are spent on a pound and a half, and just as much money is spent on sugar as ever. The prevalence of low prices simply stimulates the use of all necessary articles and correspondingly increases the profits of those who can produce them at the lower cost.

This statement, it should be remarked, applies to sugar in our eastern states only. We of the Pacific states have not the least benefit of the low prices, because the scandalous Hawaiian treaty enables a ring in San Francisco to monopolize our sugar trade and to levy a tribute of two to three cents a pound upon all the sugar consumed upon this coast. It puts the monopolist's spoon into the sugar bowl of every family in the Pacific states and territories, and robs the treasury besides. Had there been honesty in congress steps would have been taken long since to redress this outrage.

The New York Globe, the organ of the colored people, says "that the southern question will never be settled until the state governments of the south become governments of the people which comprise them; until the people of those states learn to respect the constitutions of their states and put a period, by revolution or otherwise, to the rule of intolerance, of caste, of mobocracy and of usurpation." This leads the Globe to take the extreme state rights view which made A. H. Stephens and other opponents of secession go with their states out of the union. "We would not hesitate a moment," it says, "in case of war between the United States and the state of New York, to take sides with our state—the state of New York, which abolished slavery and conferred manhood rights upon our race long years before northern sentiment compelled the hide-bound government of the United States to do the same thing. We prize our citizenship of New York state of far more value than our so-called, but inexplicable, citizenship of the United States." The colored people evidently need more education.

The leading newspapers of the south agree that the recent shooting of certain Mormon elders in Tennessee was murder, but that there were extenuating circumstances, and that such riots and disturbances must needs continue to occur so long as the Mormon elders continue their proselytizing in the south. The New Orleans Times-Democrat says: "As long as the federal government tolerates Mormonism and polygamy the Saints will endeavor to propagate their ideas, not only in Utah but throughout the south, and as long as they continue to do so riots and disturbances, killings and shootings, such as occurred last week, may be expected, for the popular feeling is so wrought up on this subject that it is out of all question to cool passions or prevent these outbreaks." The Atlanta Constitution says that the attempt to introduce Mormonism in the south will be resented in every way; that if peaceable means are not effective other means will be adopted.

Gen. Butler's illustration of the way in which the tariff plank was constructed in the national democratic convention, is the best yet given. The committee, he says, "struggled like the western hunter who tried to shoot his rifle at something he dimly saw stirring in a bush, so as to hit it if it was a deer and miss it if it was a calf."

It is a revelation of the uneasiness of the democratic campaign managers to find the New York Times urging republicans to vote for St. John. Any pretense to help Cleveland.

The July land sales of the Northern Pacific were 26,005 acres, and the receipts for the same were $137,961. The sales are falling considerably below those of last year.

CHESTERFIELD AS A DECOY.

A Story Which, If True, Is More Creditable to his Kindness than his Sagacity.

Tinsley's Magazine.

Mr. Taylor heard a curious story connected with this celebrated Earl of Chesterfield, which is more creditable to the good nature of that nobleman than to his knowledge of society or of his grand rule, noblesse oblige. He condescended, it seems, on one occasion to act as a sort of decoy at one of the sales, though he carried out his function in his usual elegant and decorous way.

"As a proof of the estimation in which Mr. Christie's character was held, particularly by the great Earl of Chesterfield, I relate the following fact which was told me by my late esteemed friend, Sir Francis Bourgeois: 'Mr. Christie had a particularly valuable collection of pictures to dispose of, most of which were of very high reputation abroad. Anxious that this collection should be distinguished from those of less celebrity, he waited upon the Earl of Chesterfield, to whom he had the honor of being known. It happened that the earl had seen many of the pictures in question during his travels. Mr. Christie told his lordship how anxious he was that these pictures should excite the attention they deserved, and he requested that his lordship would condescend to look at them. His lordship promised to attend the public view, and gave Mr. Christie leave to announce his intention among his friends, or wherever he thought proper, and in order to give eclat to the occasion he promised to come in state. On the day appointed, therefore, the room was crowded in the expectation of seeing this venerable and celebrated nobleman, who arrived in a coach and six, with numerous attendants. The company gave way and afforded a convenient space for his lordship. He was attended by Mr. Christie, who took the liberty of directing his lordship's attention to some pictures, and requested to be favored with his opinion of the chief productions in the room. The earl, who came merely to serve Mr. Christie, spoke in high terms of several of the pictures which he had seen on his travels, and also of others pointed out to him by Mr. Christie as if they were equally recollected by him. The auditors pressed as near as respect for his lordship would permit them, in order to hear and circulate his opinions. After remaining in the room till the purpose of his visit was fully accomplished, to the gratification of the company, his lordship, gracefully bowing, retired in the same state, accompanied to his carriage by Mr. Christie; and the result was that the additional reputation which the collection acquired by his lordship's condescension in support of this ingenious expedient enabled Mr. Christie to sell it to the best advantage."

THE IRISH REVOLT.

Pittsburg Commercial Gazette.

The greatest anomaly of the present canvass is the revolt of large numbers of Irish voters who have heretofore been identified with the democratic party. The movement is acknowledged on all hands as remarkable—so strange, indeed, that many are at a loss to account for it, and because of its strangeness the democratic leaders rashly conclude that there is nothing substantial in it.

One of the most satisfactory explanations which has yet been given of the revolt is found in the last number of the American, a weekly publication of high character in Philadelphia. The writer first explains how it came that nearly all Irish-Americans drifted into the democratic party. In less than a decade following the great famine in Ireland, in 1847, two and a quarter millions of the Irish people emigrated, the greater part coming to the United States. The fact that nearly all of these were Roman Catholics created apprehension among Protestants, and out of this alarm grew the know-nothing party, the speedy overthrow of which showed that the American people had nothing to fear from the Catholics or any other religion, as such.

As the democratic party was mainly instrumental in the defeat of the know-nothing organization, the Irish-Americans naturally allied themselves with it. Even now the vote of a majority of the Irish will be cast for the democratic candidate, for no better reason than that it is something of a wrench to vote for a republican. But a new light has filled the eyes of many intelligent Irishmen. They now see the folly of giving point and emphasis to this remark of an Englishman: "An Irishman is of no use to us until he emigrates to America and begins to vote the democratic ticket."

The appreciation of this latter fact fully accounts for the revolt of Irish-Americans. They know that Ireland's prosperity has been destroyed by the British policy of free trade, and voting the democratic party into power would destroy the prosperity of the United States, a result which would be hailed by all England with the highest degree of satisfaction. As they owe no love to England they are in favor of a thoroughly American, and therefore anti-English policy, and will vote for Blaine and Logan as the representatives of that policy!

The Prosperous Man.

St. Louis Critic.

She—Papa is very particular, and I doubt very much whether he will give his consent. He—Why? She—He is opposed to my marrying a man who has not established himself in business, and, George, you know you have not. How could you, dear, when all your afternoons are spent at baseball games? CHEAP RATES ON WHEAT TO THE EAST.—In order to relieve the pressure upon farmers in Washington territory, the Northern Pacific railroad company yesterday issued a circular announcing that they would carry wheat from all points on their line east of Wallula Junction to Duluth, Minneapolis or St. Paul at $8 per ton, the same as the rate to Portland. The present rate from Duluth via the lakes to Liverpool or the United Kingdom is $7 50 per ton, making a total of $15 50 from Washington territory to a foreign market. This is from $3 to $4 less than by way of Portland to Liverpool. Of course there is no profit to the company in hauling wheat at the rate of half a cent per ton per mile, and it is doubtful whether the traffic can be diverted from the channel it has always followed to one in an opposite direction. The chief difficulty in the way of sending wheat east at this time is that interior dealers have not established relations with commission houses on the lakes, and farmers must have the money for their grain soon after it is sold. Still the action of the railroad in affording two markets for wheat, and not compelling producers to be confined to one market, is commendable. It is not to be supposed that the O. R. & N. Co. take kindly to this move, which it is suggested would take away the $6 a ton which that company gets for the haul from Wallula Junction to Portland.

TORTURING A JUDGE.—There was developed in the state circuit court yesterday a deep-laid scheme to put Judge Reuben P. Boise of Salem to death by slow torture. It was in the case of Hackett against the Multnomah railway company, about possession of the franchise for the Albina ferry. The instrument of torture used was five hundred pages of testimony closely written on legal cap, being read aloud to him. It was the entire evidence taken before Charles H. Carey, referee, by a stenographer, and transcribed, and included every question and answer, material and immaterial, in direct examination, cross-examination, re-direct examination, rebuttal and sur-rebuttal. It was as interesting as reading a Webster speller or a Collins almanac. The attorneys took turns at the elocutionary work, each reading until he was hoarse. By night the document was half finished, and the torture will occupy all of to-day. The testimony could have been submitted by stipulation just as well as not, but the attorneys would not agree to such a course. It is hinted that several Portland gentlemen who are not averse to senatorial honors conceived this plan of getting Judge Boise out of the way and prevent his competing for the prize.

THE STREET OVERSEERS.—M. S. Hart received a communication from the council committee on streets and public property yesterday morning notifying him that his tenure of office as overseer of the street cleaning and sprinkling department had expired and that his services were no longer required. He was instructed to turn over the time-book and other city property in his charge to Fred. Mathews, his successor in office. Mr. Hart refused to turn over his office, on the ground that the appointment of the committee must be confirmed by the council before the appointee is qualified to assume the duties of the office. There seems to be a misunderstanding in regard to the powers of the committee in such matters. The committee claim that they have the power to employ a man for this work and place him in possession of the office, and so Mr. Mathews will hold and [illegible] after the business of the office. So it seems that the city now has two overseers of the street cleaning department, and the streets ought to fairly shine.

DOG CASE DECIDED.—The celebrated case between Joe Perry and Dona Ryan for the possession of a little dog was tried before Justice Greene yesterday, on a change of venue from Justice Buchtel's court. The jury decided that Perry should have the dog, or in lieu thereof $5, and that the costs should be equally divided between the plaintiff and the defendant. The rendering of the verdict for the plaintiff throws the costs upon the defendant, so it is difficult to see how the intentions of the jury can be carried out, notwithstanding that it was well meant. It is a good thing that in this row over a worthless puppy, the costs of which amount to about $60, are not to be taxed to the county. Whether the case will be appealed to the circuit court or not, is not known.

FIRE IN A CAR.—The new Pullman car "Brainerd" came in Monday from St. Paul with about $50 damages from fire. A lady passenger had gone into the dressing room with a small spirit lamp, presumably for heating crimping pins, and left without extinguishing it. The flames set fire to the towels, and these burning blistered the paint and cracked the mirror. About three years ago a woman was burned to death through the careless handling of a spirit lamp in a Pullman car, and the company issued an order forbidding passengers to use them. Of late it has become a dead letter, and it is not uncommon for passengers to take them along to heat tea and coffee and milk. No doubt the order will now be renewed.

RUNAWAY ACCIDENT.—A 14-year-old son of P. L. Riggs, formerly of this city, but now engaged in farming near Bridgeport, Washington county, met with a serious accident a day or two since. He had been in this city, accompanied by a younger brother, with a load of garden truck, and while going down a hill near Fanno creek, on his way home, one of his horses, annoyed by a fly, kicked his leg over the pole and then ran away. The boy got on the brake and did his best to stop the team, but without avail; the wagon was upset, catching him under the box which was drawn some distance before he made his escape. Fortunately no bones were broken, but he was badly bruised and scratched, but trudged pluckily along home after his team.

MECHANICS' FAIR.—At a recent meeting of the board of managers of the Portland mechanics' fair, G. E. Withington, cashier of the First national bank was elected treasurer of the association, to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of William M. Ladd. Everything looks most favorable for having one of the best fairs this fall that we have ever had. Superintendent Allen reports applications already in for the larger portion of the space. The board will unite from this on with the superintendent in perfecting all plans and necessary arrangements, and to this end will hold a meeting every Saturday evening at the office of the president, J. B. Congle.

CHEAP FOOD.—"Wheat is cheaper to-day in England than it has been for over a hundred years," said a shipper to an OREGONIAN reporter, yesterday. "The same will apply to salmon," said a cannery-man who stood by. This is rather a gloomy outlook for "we 'uns" who have wheat and salmon to sell, but to the millions of the middle and working classes of Europe it means cheap bread and cheap fish, and, incidentally, cheap beer, and consequently there is great joy over the ocean. It is a pity that what is their gain is our loss, but 'tis ever thus.

MARTIN & CO'S LEASE.—There is likely to be considerable litigation over the lease of the apartments in Leonard's block, formerly occupied by Eppinger. The entire building was leased by W. J. Leahy and D. F. Leahy, who sub-leased to Eppinger for a term of five years at $215 a month. Eppinger transferred the lease to Thomas Martin, he to the old firm of E. Martin & Co., and they to the new firm of E. Martin & Co. The Leahys claim that Martin & Co. are responsible for the rent which has not been paid since the place was closed, three months since, and began suit one month ago to recover the same.

WANT CHICKENS.—Steamer passengers between this city and San Francisco complain that poultry has been cut off from the bill of fare. The sea voyage is apt to make trouble with the stomachs of most people, and those who long for spring chicken complain because they are unable to get it. The steamship company are the judges as to what fare they will supply their patrons, and if they choose to refuse chicken, there are two remedies. Travelers must either go overland or pack a chicken or two in their gripsacks. Probably one might be allowed to take some live chickens in a cage if he called them singing birds.

FROM FOLEY SPRINGS.—John Kelly, formerly connected with the postoffice here, arrived in town yesterday from Foley Springs. These springs, which are situated about sixty miles from Eugene, near the summit of the Cascade mountains, are becoming a favorite summer resort. The guests enjoy steam baths, and there is also a swimming club. There is the best of hunting in the mountains and fine fishing in Horse creek and the McKenzie. When Kelly left Hon. John Gearin and Mark Wilzinski of this city were at the springs.

THE CAMPAIGN IN OREGON.—The republican state central committee have decided to open the presidential campaign in this state by a rally in Portland, Monday, September 15. If any of the remote districts desire speakers at an earlier date they will probably be accommodated. Hon. George W. McBride of St. Helens, secretary of the committee, has mailed, or will mail, invitations to nearly every republican speaker in the state, and it is safe to say that none will be lukewarm. The campaign will be as lively as it is short.

PASSENGER DEPOT.—It is stated that the Northern Pacific Terminal company will soon commence the construction of a passenger depot on the corner of Front and G streets, in this city, for the use of the Kalama branch of the Northern Pacific. It is said the 20x60 feet. A six-stall round house for the Northern Pacific engines and a turn-table will be constructed this fall by the same company at a point near the intersection of north Front and N streets.

CHEERFUL VISITOR.—At 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon a smart shower of rain commenced falling and continued steadily for about two hours. It was a perfect God-send to the city, but doubtless unwelcome to the farmers as far up the valley as it extended. Not that the little shower would do any harm beyond delaying harvesting for a short time, but there is always an uneasy feeling produced by showers in harvest time for fear that they may last too long. A genial, cheerful, benevolent looking, middle aged, gentleman, whose heart was evidently overflowing with good feeling for all mankind and farmers, in general—the kind of a man who visits a very sick friend and gives details of a death-bed scene the day before—called in at the room of THE OREGONIAN reporters during the shower and volunteered the cheering information that it was just like 1852, when it commenced raining in the middle of harvest and kept it up till the next spring without cessation. The greater part of the grain crop was ruined, and the next year there was a drouth which caused an entire failure of crops. The recurrence of this state of affairs the benevolent gentleman deemed extremely possible.

IN ARREARS.—The county court and commissioners are beginning to think of the tax levy for the coming year. The county is in arrears owing to the tremendous expense of the justice court system, which has run up to the enormous sum of $22,000. The levy will have to be larger than it was last year, and as there is no limit to which the cost of the justice court system can be confined, it is hard to tell how high to place the tax levy so that the county may be kept out of debt.

RAILROAD CONTRACT LET.—The contract for the construction of twenty-five miles of road on the west end of the Cascade division of the Northern Pacific railroad from South prairie to Green river, was awarded yesterday to Nelson Bennett, who is now engaged on the Yakima division. There were only three bidders, the Oregon Construction Co., C. B. Robinson and Bennett. The cost of construction will approximate $600,000.

APPOINTED CADET.—Fred Schwatka Evans of Salem was appointed to the cadetship in the Annapolis naval academy made vacant by the promotion of Mr. Weeks to a lieutenancy in the army. He will leave for the east about the 1st proximo, to be ready for examination on the 15th. The appointee is 17 years old, and is a nephew of Lieutenant Fred. G. Schwatka of Arctic fame.

NEW ROAD.—W. B. Marye, county surveyor, has completed the survey of a road leading from Robert Patton's dwelling to Mount Zion school house. It will be forty feet wide, one mile long and will be an easier grade and shorter cut to the top of the hill. The viewers will make their report at the next meeting of the county commissioners.

OVERLAND PASSENGERS.—Passed Huron yesterday, to arrive here to-day: N. Bennett, Jos. Bolls, J. G. Robbins, G. W. Elliott, W. J. Robinson, B. H. Logan, J. E. Robbins, W. W. Franklin, Henry Bishop, Miss Rodney, C. H. Mewithew, wife and child, Charles F. Richardson, Miss Morris.

THE EAST SIDE.

THE FIFTH STREET BRIDGE.

The North Pacific Lumber and Manufacturing Company are anxious to know what the city is going to do about the Fifth street bridge, across Sullivan's gulch. It is pretty safe to presume that the city means to do nothing about it that would benefit the N. P. L. & M. Co. The contractor put up a rattletrap concern that the city did right in refusing to accept, and when the N. P. L. & M. Co. accepted the contractor's interest in the bridge in payment for the lumber furnished, it was with a knowledge of this fact; and therefore are entitled to no more consideration or sympathy from the city than the contractor would be. A scheme was planned between the old council and the company by which the bridge was to be accepted by the former after it had been patched up and repaired according to the specifications of specially appointed experts. But there was a rising that prevented the execution of this little scheme to fleece the old council to consummate the bargain. It was the rising of the Willamette, "The best laid plans aft gang agley," and so it was in this case. The company has since failed their part of the bargain, but the party of the first part is no longer in existence, and their successors in office are not bound by the acts of their predecessors in this respect, and being on an economical streak, are not likely to take any action that would involve the city in another law suit, which the acceptance of this bridge would assuredly do.

CLOSE FIGURING.

Otto Kleemann, architect, yesterday opened the bids for the iron and carpenter work on the Harrington two-story brick, to be erected on the corner of [illegible] and E streets. Wild figuring has been so much the rule of late that an exception is refreshing. Following are the [illegible]: Iron work—Willamette Iron Works, $1,170; Dalton Iron Works, $1,000; Frank Payne, $1,020. Carpenter work—John Becker, $9,985; Wescott & Duffer, $10,182; Wilson, $10,250; C. J. Sheehan, $11,[illegible]; Sherman, $10,318; Ogwood, $10,571; Bennett, $10,400; Robertson, $10,[illegible]; Haynes Bros., $10,[illegible]; Zeller, Sugar & Co., $10,750; May & Merchant, $11,[illegible]; P. Lafollie, $10,364; Shelton, $11,880; Austin, $11,280; C. P. Lisabay, $11,500. The lowest bidder for each kind of work will receive the contract therefor.

FIGHTERS FINED.

On complaint of W. P. Heffman, lessee of Washington park, five of the gladiators engaged in Sunday's melee at the park were arraigned before Justice Simpson yesterday on charges of assault and battery. Two of these, Morris Johnson and Thomas Williams, came over quietly from Portland in the forenoon, pleaded guilty, paid their fine of $5 and costs each and as quietly returned. Others, who took a more prominent part in the conflict, were driven to the court with much ceremony during the afternoon. Of this latter were Jas. Bates, Joseph Wallace, Ed. Bird and "Kid" Miller. The three former pleaded guilty and the latter not guilty. Bates and Wallace were each fined $20 and costs, and Bird, not appearing to have been so aggressive, $10 and costs. Defendants promptly paid their fines, but refused payment of the costs, appearing to think the court could not collect them. In this they may be mistaken. Miller gave bonds for his appearance for trial on Thursday. Another batch of the same kind may be hauled up to-morrow.

NOTES.

The car shops are reported a [illegible] for Butler.

Messrs. A. L. Kirk and N. Merrill have returned from Long Beach.

Mrs. Hawthorne and Mrs. A. K. Osburn have each had a cottage erected at Long Beach.

The public schools of District No. 31, Holladay's addition and Albina, will open September 15.

Mrs. A. Irwin and Mrs. J. Buchtel left this morning for the East Portland camp at Long Beach.

Mrs. D. L. Lowther and family returned Monday from a two weeks' visit to friends and relatives in Hillsboro.

Mr. James Humphrey left yesterday morning for Eugene to visit the bedside of his mother, who is seriously ill.

A. H. Logan, J. L. Sperry and family and Mrs. Dave Raffety, who have been roughing it on the Sandy, returned home last evening.

Mr. Horace Duesbury left on the State of California for San Francisco, to attend the mechanics' fair, and will return in about two weeks.

Rev. S. P. Wilson, pastor of the M. E. church, left on last evening's train for Salem, to attend the M. E. conference which convenes in that city to-day.

Mrs. J. H. McMillen, Mrs. E. B. McMillen and Miss Ivy McMillen have returned from their two weeks' visit to Victoria and other places. The health of Miss Ivy is much improved.

Rev. John W. Sellwood, rector of St. David's church, returned yesterday from his vacation, spent in a missionary tour through southern Oregon, and will officiate at the church on Sabbath next.

Rev. C. H. Hobart, of the Baptist church of this city, and Rev. G. J. Burchett, of McMinnville, returned Monday from their trip to Mt. Hood. They report having had a good time and feeling much improved in health.

Professor M. L. Pratt, principal of the schools of District 31, who has been spending his vacation at the home of his parents in Adrian, Michigan, returned home Monday evening, looking hale and hearty. He reports crops and politics booming "back east."

BRIEF MENTION.

M. E. conference at Salem to-day.

The Fay Templeton opera company reopen here next Monday.

The O. R. & N. line will be opened for traffic to Baker City about September 10.

A son of J. H. Gulla, superintendent of the O. R. & N. Co.'s telegraph, fell from a tree a day or two since and broke his forearm.

Lots in Greenwood cemetery, the new Masonic burial place, adjoining River View cemetery, are now on sale. Application may be made to White & Rigger, or A. P. DeLin.

George Wright post is arranging a grand moonlight excursion to Oregon City, and dance there at Pope's hall. Prof. Varney furnishes the music, and a splendid time will be assured to those who desire to get away from the din and dust of the city.

Policeman Levi Wing, one of the most popular and efficient men on the force, got leave of absence two months ago to visit his old home in Michigan, ostensibly to see his parents. He returned this week with a life partner, nee Miss Isabella Woodhurst, to whom he was married at Leslie, Michigan, August 6, and will begin housekeeping on West Park street near Oak. At present he is busy receiving congratulations of his many friends.

PERSONAL.

D. G. Waldron, general agent for the Wasp, arrived here yesterday on his annual trip.

Dr. Gardner, of Fort Canby, while bathing last Sunday sustained a very severe injury to his right foot.

Frank Churchill who was injured in a runaway accident Saturday evening is slowly improving, and will soon be convalescent.

Hon. D. W. Stearns and wife and Mrs. T. A. Hyland of Douglas county are visiting at the residence of Judge Stearns in this city.

Mr. Arthur Wilgon, Swedish vice consul, who has been in Astoria for some time looking up the claims of drowned fishermen, returned yesterday.

INTERVIEW WITH SENATOR DOLPH.

What He Thinks of the Political Outlook and the Material Development of Oregon and Washington.

Senator J. N. Dolph returned Monday from New York in good health and excellent spirits. He spent most of the day yesterday at the law office of Dolph, Bellinger, Mallory & Simon, and a steady stream of personal friends visited him. On his way back from Washington Senator Dolph stopped at his old home in Watkins, Schuyler county, New York. Upon invitation he opened the campaign in the county on the 21st, making a speech to a very large crowd. An OREGONIAN reporter was granted a short audience with the senator, who, in answer to an inquiry relative to the political outlook in New York state, said:

"The republicans there are sanguine of Blaine's election, and from present appearances there is every reason to believe he will carry the state of New York. The independents of New York who, immediately after the Chicago convention seemed ready to follow the leadership of George William Curtis, are dropping back into the republican ranks, and the number of so-called independents is growing smaller every day. The bolters are confined principally to [illegible], and the leaders [illegible] [illegible] New York, so far as I could learn, there is no defection from the republican party."

"Will you take part in the campaign in this state?" asked the reporter.

"I shall, if I am invited," answered the senator. "I have already made an engagement at Yaquina bay, the first of next [illegible], and will go there then. I will [illegible] [illegible]" (As Senator Dolph, together with other [illegible] leaders, will be [illegible] invited this week to make speeches, he need have no hesitancy on that score.)

"How do you view the present business outlook for Oregon and Washington territory?"

"I have the utmost faith in the great future, not only of Portland, but the entire Pacific northwest. It is but natural that I should find the northwest in sympathy with the depression in the east. The financial depression, besides the cessation to some extent of railway construction in the country, the discontinuance of certain railroad lines and improvements for a time being, and the fact that some persons had undertaken to discount the future in the real estate and other speculative transactions, are sufficient to account for the present [illegible]. I think the people of the country have reason to congratulate themselves that great railroad enterprises are still being carried on; that the Puget Sound branch of the Oregon Railway and Navigation company is to be completed this fall, and that prompt action at the Cascade branch of the Northern Pacific is promised. I have recently seen it [illegible], that Henry Villard, president of the Oregon and Transcontinental company, is negotiating with fair prospects of success for funds with which to complete the road to a junction with the Oregon branch of the Central Pacific, thus giving a third connection with the east. I learn, also, that there was a large immigration to Oregon and Washington territory during the spring, and I am satisfied from the personal interest taken in this section that there will be a larger immigration this spring."

PROHIBITION.

The Question of Organizing a Third Party Discussed.

PORTLAND, OR., Aug. 25.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE OREGONIAN:

In the Herald Guard for August 1 was published a list of the names of the state central committee of the prohibition party as furnished by the chairman. This has called forth a letter from Hon. Henry Rogers, member-elect of the legislature for Douglas county.

The Guard has been forced to suspend for want of financial support, and hence Mr. Rogers' letter can not be made public in the same journal that unintentionally misrepresented him, by proclaiming him an active supporter of the "third" party. Will you kindly assist me in placing the gentleman right before the public by publishing both this explanation and the letter received herewith. Yours for fair play,

WILL C. KING.

DRAIN'S STATION, OR., AUG. 17, 1884.

TO THE EDITOR HERALD GUARD:

I was somewhat surprised at seeing my name used in the last issue of the Guard in connection with the "prohibition or prohibitive party," as I am not a member of said party. My heart is in the temperance work, and I shall always use my influence to carry forward temperance principles, but do not think it necessary for me to renounce the republican party and connect myself with another political party to do so, neither do I see where a third party can effectually accomplish anything for prohibition in Oregon. I have not the least doubt but a prohibition amendment will pass the necessary legislatures and be submitted to the people. We all know that this point has been by means of the republicans and democrats alike, as they are the only parties that will be represented in our legislature.

Through the combined efforts and earnest temperance workers we have secured better results during the last year than the reports of the G. W. C. T. and the W. C. T. U. show than any previous year. Well known prohibitionists have been elected to the legislature, and the temperance sentiment was extended beyond [illegible] known. In my state both were elected over the polls who a few years ago would have been defeated. The letter plan, I think, is for the temperance element, one political party as a third party is concerned. Through a good temperance element of both parties on the temperance question, all that the amendment is submitted to the people and adopted to the ballot of the [illegible] [illegible], is a moral right upon temperance principle, and not on political question.

During the progress of the temperance work in Iowa, where everything was working as well as it could be expected, some temperance enthusiasts and some [illegible] started a third party, as they thought the republican and democratic parties were not doing their duty in reference to this question. And what was the result? Prohibition received a backset of five or six years. And recent, not to say a failure, it would have been six years before the state would recover from it. And to-day Iowa is a joy to civilization, not by a third party but by earnest work and logical reasoning, drawing the better element of both parties together to right upon the question which it was submitted to the people. And my opinion is that a third party in Oregon is a mistake, and perhaps will be a serious one when the question is submitted to the people, for then it will be made a party issue and not be voted upon as a moral principle and there can be no principle by those who would vote for prohibition regardless of party affiliations if it was not a party issue.

Reflections by an Old Bachelor.

[illegible]

Wonder if the women who cut out and sew together hundreds of pieces of silk and ribbons and call it a crazy quilt keep the buttons sewed on their husbands' shirts and pants. Wonder if the women who are always knitting, tidies keep the house tidy. Wonder if tatting, so fashionable some years ago, wasn't an aid to tattling. Wonder if the women who devote a good share of their time to household duties and to bringing up their children right aren't the best after all.

NOTICE TO PASSENGERS.

Owing to low water in Snake river the following change has been made on the Lewiston route: Boats will leave Riparia for Lewiston and intermediate points on Sunday and Wednesday upon arrival of train from the west. Leave Lewiston on Monday and Thursday; leave Lewiston on Tuesday and Friday. Arrive Riparia Wednesday and Saturday, to connect with train for Portland.

The Truth About La Camas

Is, that it is the only place in the Northwest unaffected by the present dull times.

Its magnificent water power and its fine location, backed by its large capital, must make it always what it is now, the liveliest town in the Northwest.

Its people are principally new men from the East, who have brought large capital and abundant enterprise with them.

It is the best place in all this country for new comers to make a start in business or to get work.

It is not a real estate speculation, and has no real estate boom.

It costs only $1 for the round trip and a few hours' time to go and see it.

Take the steamer "Traveler" at the foot of Morrison street, Portland, at 2:30 P. M. daily.

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway is the short line to all eastern points, and it runs the finest dining and sleeping cars in the world.

See the crowds to-night at the One Price Shoe House, 59 First street, cor. Main and Madison. This proves that our prices are the lowest.

PISCICULTURE.

An Exhibit of the Work of the National Fish Commission.

FRESH FISH FOR EVERYBODY.

The Origin of the Commission and the Results of its Work—Cod and other Fish [illegible] the [illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible] the [illegible] [illegible] as he knows the [illegible] of fishes and fish cultures. [illegible] congress appropriated a small sum of money for the purpose of investigating the question, with the idea of remedying it. Professor Baird was placed at the head, a position for which he has shown himself well fitted in the 13 years of the fish commission's existence. At the time of the first appropriation it was intended that the commission should be only temporary, but so great was the importance of the work that during the first year, and so fully was the necessity of a permanent commission shown, that the fish commission soon came to be established as a permanent department of the government. No one who is at all acquainted with the facts will for a moment conclude that in commercial advantages derived the fish commission has not paid for itself many times over. It is with the idea of making this apparent that this article is written.

Professor Baird, the commissioner, is himself a remarkable man. In science he has attained the highest possible rank, having covered a large field fully and well. One who is acquainted with him is at once impressed with his broadness of mind and variety of knowledge. He is not narrow-minded and prejudiced, and so wrapped up in his special studies as to ignore outside things, but on the contrary, is very liberal and willing to change his opinions when the weight of argument convinces him of his error. It was just such a man as this that was needed at the head of such an important department. The head must be liberal, for broad questions must be investigated and decided. Then, too, he must possess great scientific attainments, for the responsibilities of the position demand that the chief shall decide for himself and not have decisions [made by] inferiors, as is often the case in high offices. Besides all these points, there is one of paramount importance: he must have great administrative ability. Anyone who knows Professor Baird or who has paid attention to his work will be thoroughly convinced that he possesses an extraordinary amount of executive ability. With such a man as this in charge, and with the liberality of congress to support him, the fish commission must almost of necessity have attained its present importance, for the only other essential is plenty of work to be done, and it is a fact proved by the results attained that work was not lacking.

Arriving at Wood's Holl early in the summer of 1871 with an efficient corps of naturalists, Professor Baird set about his task immediately. The method pursued was, first, to study the food of the fishes and see if in any way this had decreased or was decreasing. Many fish of all kinds were caught and studied, their stomachs removed and their contents examined. The parasites were also studied. Systematically all kinds of fish and lower forms of life were taken up until the end of the summer all forms of life in Vineyard sound and vicinity were well known, and their relation to each other ascertained. At the same time the young were studied, and the mode of development, the places where they developed and the causes which interfered with their growth, were all made clear. These were but the preliminary steps taken before making the final move which would bring out the immense practical results. In addition to the practical advantage which was to come later, there was the great scientific value of the observations. Many people, not themselves interested in science, find it difficult to appreciate that scientific work is of any real benefit. They being of a practical turn of mind, fail to see value in that which results in no immediate pecuniary return. If one admits that education is important, scientific work must also be classed as important, for it is but a form of education. Yet many educated people fail to appreciate this.

In 1872 the fish commission settled [at] Eastport, and there pursued the same course as at first. In that year, however, the scientific department assumed more importance, and dredging was carried on in small boats and a steam launch. The year 1873 was spent at Portland, Maine; 1874 at Noank, Connecticut; 1875 at Wood's Holl again; and 1876 this being the centennial year, the summer was spent in attending to the [illegible] exhibit. In 1877 a part of the year was spent at [illegible] [illegible] the fisheries of [illegible], Mass. [illegible] which [illegible] Gloucester were [illegible] [illegible] to that time [illegible] 1880 the fish commission had done all its work in very small boats of its own and in steamers, such as the [illegible] and [illegible], placed at its disposal by the government [illegible] [illegible] but had never [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]. To our [illegible], one would hardly expect that any remarkable amount of work would be done in dredging, but, nevertheless, the shallow waters of the coast of Maine out on the fishing banks were very thoroughly explored. In 1878 the fishermen at Gloucester aided the commission in its researches by bringing specimens on George's banks. It was in 1878 in the marine department that practical benefits were derived, the work consisting simply of experiments and studies, but all this time an immense amount of information was being obtained, ready for use when the proper time arrived. The soundness of Professor Baird's judgment is shown by this very policy, for instead of rushing blindly into the matter in a headlong way, listening to fishermen and ordering legislation there, he went to work slowly and carefully, industriously inquiring and studying until he had obtained sufficient knowledge to see just why the fish had decreased and how this decrease could be checked. It was at this stage that, in the winter of 1878 and 1879, Professor Baird determined to try hatching cod at Gloucester, with the idea of finding what success might be expected of such efforts. During the winter a million and one-half young cod were successfully hatched and placed in the clear waters of Gloucester harbor. It had hardly been expected that any practical benefit would be derived from this experiment, for it was in truth merely an experiment made simply to find the best methods and determine how artificial hatching might be conducted practically. Each cod lays an immense number of eggs, but in the state of nature few are hatched and raised to the adult form, the rest being destroyed while still young or in the egg. The most are killed before they are a week old. Now the fish commission reared them in tanks through the most critical period, and then, when they were able to swim about, and, in a measure, look out for themselves, placed them in the water. In this way it is estimated that, where before one lived to be adult, a hundred artificially hatched ones will live. In this way, by years of persistent hatching, the waters may be restocked. Codfishes were chosen for experimenting because they are a very important food fish, and, as their eggs float, they are very difficult to hatch. If these eggs could be hatched, those of all other marine species could be. In 1882 it was reported that cod were abundant in Gloucester harbor, a thing not known since the cod left the coast for deep water when sewerage began to render the shore water impure. Last fall the writer looked the matter up and found that the fish were the deep-sea kind, and that there were three generations plainly distinguished. They fill the harbor up to the very docks, where the boys catch them while fishing for flounders. There is no doubt that these are fish-commission fish, for they are not found at any other point along the coast in the same quantities. On some days fishermen caught 100 pounds in the harbor itself, and the old fishermen say that they never remember a similar instance.

The summer of 1879 was spent by the commission at Provincetown; 1880 at Newport; 1881, 1882 and 1883 at Wood's Holl, which has been chosen as a permanent station on account of the many natural advantages which it possesses over all other places. Large hatching basins have been built and hatching houses erected there. There cod and other marine fishes will be hatched and placed in the basins, then taken by rail to different parts of the New England coast, and placed into the water as available points. It is expected that the hatching work will begin next winter, and that each year after millions of cod will be placed into the water to struggle for existence. They will, no doubt, wander from their given homes in time, but wherever they go they can be caught, and in ten years it may safely be prophesied that cod will be much more abundant than they are at present, and all this as the result of the fish commission's labors. At Wood's Holl there has also been built a marine zoological laboratory, where students and investigators can study the wonders both of the deep and of the shore. By arrangement, Harvard, Yale, Williams and Princeton colleges will each summer send two students there for the purpose of studying marine life. In addition there are those who are regularly attached to the commission as naturalists, whose work it is to study the deep-sea animals, for by this time the fish commission had done some work in very deep water. In 1880 an appropriation was requested for the purpose of building a steamer which would serve as a floating shad-hatching station to be used in the shallow bays and inlets of the Chesapeake. The boat was named the Fish Hawk, and as soon as the shad-hatching season was over it proceeded each summer to the summer station to engage in dredging. Although of a very light draught, it was often sent as far as 100 miles from land, and all the waters between 300 fathoms and the shore line on the south of New England were thoroughly explored and many treasures obtained. A rich fauna of very interesting animals was encountered and explored by this steamer. But much time was wasted in waiting for pleasant weather, for the steamer was unsafe in a storm and was never sent out unless fair weather was assured for several days; besides during the winter and spring she was not available for dredging purposes. In consequence of this in 1882 the appropriation was made for the Albatross, a 1000-ton vessel, 234 feet long, and 12 feet draught. Since she was launched the scientific importance of the fish commission has greatly increased and her investigations last summer, when she made the deepest dredgings ever made in the north Atlantic, have caused the fish commission to reach the first place in deep sea dredging, even the Challenger giving way before the Albatross. Although the marine branch of the commission has so far been of little practical importance, it has attained for the commission a scientific reputation excelled by no other department of government.

All these 13 years the commission has turned a large part of its attention to fresh water fishes, and its work in shad, salmon and trout hatching needs scarcely a notice. The value of its work in introducing the carp into American waters is equally well known. Other minor works of the commission shrink into comparative insignificance when compared to these more important ones. Great works are laid out for the future by the fish commission, and with the generous support of congress they will all be carried out.

ST. IGNATIUS' MISSION.

AN OLD MISSION THAT HAS DONE MUCH TO WARD CIVILIZING THE FLATHEAD INDIANS.

How Domestic Duties are Taught the Aborigines Under the Auspices of the Roman Catholic Church.

The Helena Herald visited St. Ignatius mission on the Northern Pacific railroad, fifty miles west of Missoula, on July 31, the feast day of all the Flathead Indians. This mission is one of the oldest, dating back to 1842, and it is said has done a good work in civilizing the aborigines. The Herald says:

The sight of the mission, which has the proportions of a village, as seen from the road, where its first view dawns upon the approaching traveler, presents such a vision of beauty that the sight seer is more than repaid for his trouble of getting there before he crosses the hospitable threshold of these pious monks of the mountains. The mission consists of a church 100x40 feet, erected by the Rev. Father Minetry in 1855, a large dwelling and refectory for the community, erected by the Rev. Father Van Gorp, in 1876, together with a grist mill, saw mill, barns, and outhouses with probably fifty log dwellings, that the Indians, who live at the mission erected for themselves. A beautiful college building of two stories and a mansard, which will accommodate as many as one hundred and fifty Indian boys, is just now completed for their exclusive use. The building is supplied with all the appliances of modern colleges. A very important part of the mission is the academy of the Holy Family of Saint Ignatius, which is conducted by a community of the Sisters of Providence, a branch of the order of the Sisters of Charity from Canada. The school for education of Indian girls was founded by the present Mother Superior in religion, Sister Mary, in the year 1864, when she, with three other sisters, commenced in a log building the difficult task of civilizing and Christianizing the young females whose frocks were blankets and whose shoes were moccasins. For near twenty years these sisters devoted their lives to the instruction of the "untutored savage," disciplining them in all the branches of household and domestic duties. In this rude dwelling in the year 1876, our reporter found the sisters going among the same duties they are now—making, [illegible], teaching, striving their best to make their [illegible] self sustaining. Now to visit them again when they have erected a large academic building sufficiently to accommodate 150 Indian girls. There are now fifty-five girls well instructed, some of them accomplished in vocal music and in the organ, and in letter-writing, and in all in branches of housekeeping, sewing, and fancy work and English and French education taught in the fashionable schools. At an exhibition of the two schools on the feast of St. Ignatius last week a very lengthy programme was presented, embracing many very well performed parts, such as singing by the Indian boys' brass band.

The exercises were held in, for the large porch of the new college, which was used for a stage, scenery, etc. The audience, composed of about fifty white people and probably 800 Indians, occupied the ground in front, where chairs and seats were provided for the few, the many being seated [illegible] on mother earth according to taste and convenience. Before the performances were over, the meeting was suddenly broken up by Chief Arlee, who got up in meeting and harangued his people in very loud Flathead, which had the effect of drawing off about 300 of the audience, who followed their chief to the feast. When translated, his speech said that the exhibition was all very good, but that he was very hungry, and that it was time to go and eat.

While at the mission the visitor can see a large and well bound dictionary of the Flathead language, gotten up and printed at the mission by the fathers at great expense and painstaking. After many years of labor and research the volume was completed at a cost of not less than $5,000 per copy. It is sought after by the libraries of the world. An order of twelve copies at $10 each was filled a few days ago for Leipsic in Germany. The fathers have also published in Flathead the four gospels and a catechism. Aside from the fact of seeing these wild tribes civilized and Christianized, the greater wonder is to see these volumes of intelligent literature brought out of a chaos of guttural sounds of an unwritten language and become a valuable acquisition to the great libraries of the world. But probably the greatest attraction, to the eyes of the casual visitor to St. Ignatius mission is its sequestered hamlet of primeval inhabitants, living in the simplest customs of a pastoral people. But to the eye of the lover of the beautiful landscape of the snowclad mountains, rugged peaks, timbered woods, grassy meadows and cultivated fields, the mission itself, with its church, college, academy, convent, monastery and mills, presents to the eye a scene of practical utility, blended with the grandeur of the groves of Mission creek, flanked by the towering peaks, mountain cataracts and lofty mountains of the Mission range, a sublimity utterly indescribable.

How Wyndham was Interviewed.

[illegible]

Charles Wyndham was telling me recently how he was interviewed in America. The energetic reporter caught him just as he was changing between the acts. "I want to interview you," he said. "I haven't a minute to spare," replied the actor hurriedly. "This is one of my quickest changes." "We have been very surprised," continued the interviewer. "I am glad to hear it," replied Wyndham. "May I call on you to-morrow?" "Unfortunately, I am off early in the morning, so I fear I cannot give myself the pleasure of seeing you." "Good evening, then." "Good night." This conversation the next morning occupied a column and a half.

WEDNESDAY MORNING. AUGUST 27, 1884.

NASBY.

Mr. Nasby, Who is in New York on Political Business, Interviews Several Distinguished People and Proposes a New Ticket.

CONFEDERIT X ROADS (wich is in the state uv Kentucky), Aug. 12.—I cum to Noo York to atend a meetin uv the Independent Republikins, wich hev boltid Blane and perpose to elect Cleveland, to see egsackly wat they mean to do. I wuz forchnit in my time uv comin, for there wuz a meetin uv em the nite I struck the Metropolis. There wuz present George Wilyum Curtis, Carl Shurts, the Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, and others too tejus to menshun.

I can't say they greeted me with that corjality wich ought to egsist atwixt brethren engaged in a common coz, and I am satisfide that the genooine Democrisy uv the kentry kin never work in harmony with em. They are altogether too nice for our party. Mr. Shurts remarked suthin about cleen shirts bein not altogether ondesirable, wich wuz evidently leveled at me. Out uv deference to these finicky-men I hed borrered a shirt from a cloze-line at 1 A. M. to come to Noo York in, and hed only wore it a week. Wat do they want? Wood they hev a man hev a thousand shirts? They ot to see that shirt a week from now.

George Wilyum Curtis snifed at my breth, and Henry Ward Beecher refoosed to speak to me at al. However, I don't mind trifles like that. I mingled with 'em affably.

The question under discusshun wuz the proper method uv conducktin the campane on the part uv the Independents, and Mr. Curtis spoke fust.

Mr. Curtis remarkt that he hed kiled the Republikin party, originely becoz uv the depravity uv its candidate, the tatooed Blane. It wuz his originel idee that he cood never suport a man wich hed any stane onto his caracter uv any kind. But his views hed undergone a modificashen recently. He hed originely intended to eliminate polytix from the campane entirely—and hed notified the Dimocratic Nashnel Comity to that effeck—and fite it out purely on the sooperior morality uv Mr. Cleveland, but his views hed undergone a serius change sence a subsized pres hed charged Mr. Cleveland with sedoosin a widder and bein the father uv a illegitimit child—

A voice from the awjense—"And proved it, too."

"I admit the correcshun. And proved it. I hev sence desidid that the bringin uv the persnel caracter uv candidates into the canvas is al rong. For the time bein, I only ask offishl purity uv a candidate. Wat hez the Wider Halpin to do with civil servis reform?" Wat hez the Wider Halpin to with—"

Myself—"The postoffises!"

"Wat hez the Wider Halpin or the child, Oscar Folsom Cleveland, to do with purifyin Amerikin politix? Nothin. This campane must now be fot on them ishoos, and none others."

The Rev. Henry Ward Beecher spoke next.

"If sposed," sed Mr. Beecher, "that Mr. Cleveland wuz actily gilty uv the henyus sin that has bin charged to him, I supose I cood not conshienshusly vote for him. A man in public life hez no rite to indulge in sins in sich a way that it can be proved agin him. Ruther than hev it proved agin him he had beter keep virchus. In a matter uv this kind the onpardonable sin is to hev it proved agin yoo. I kin sympathize with Mr. Cleveland, for I have bin slandered myself. Yu all remember the painful circumstances. But I wuz shoor uv my ground, I wuz acquited. My people al bleeved that, while I wuz inosent, Elizabeth was gilty, and I most ernestly hope that our noble standard-bearer is fixed the same way. We care not how gilty Mrs. Halpin may be considered, but we must doubt the gilt uv Mr. Cleveland. And, after all I shel vote for him anyway. Sez the Holy Scripters, 'Let him wich is without sin cast the fust stone.' To forgive is divine. We all need forgiveness. Spose Theodore had succeeded in huntin' me out uv my pulpit wat wood Brooklyn, and the Independent-Republikin organizashen, and the world hev lost? When the purifyin' of the polytix uv this great kentry is under considerashen it is idle to take into account such a trifle ez the seduckshen uv a woman, the abduckshen of a child, or trifles like that. We shood keep our eyes fixed stedily onto wat we sot out to do—the establishment uv richuasis in polytix. Not wun uv us kin vote for a man like Blaine, whose caracter is smirched."

It wuz my turn to chip in, wich I did as follows:

"My friends and co-workers," I remarkt, "I bring yoo glad tidins uv grate joy. The charges made by a venal and subsidized pres agin Mr. Cleveland don't affect the dimocrisy uv and Corners at al. That feend, Joe Bigler, sposed it wood hev sum effeck upon the dimocrisy, and he sposed that we wood denounce a man for such misdemeanor, and demand his retirement from the ticket. We held a meetin to consider the mater and Josef fixed to put us to confusion, wich is his prinsiple biznis. He gathered together a hundred or more mulatoes, the most uv em over 30 yeers uv age, bein the sole reminders uv the old patriarkl system wich the republican party destroyed, al uv em bearin the honored names uv Pogram, McPelter, Gavitt, and Guttle, and al uv em resemblin the Pograms, Gavitts, McPelters and Gutleses to a wonderful degree. He gathered together these niggers, and brot em to the meetin house, and intendid to spring em on us jist after we had passed a resolooshen denounsin Cleveland for hevin bin the father uv a illegitimit child. Did he put us to confooshun? Not any. I quoted the passage uv skripter wich my frend Mr. Beecher jist quotid, and we resolved, ez yoo are doin, that this campane must be fot out on the grate prinsiple uv reform in polytix, and that in sich a fite the privit caracter uv our candidate hed nothin whatever to do with it. It is entirely proper to assale the privit caracter uv the republican candidate, becoz the republican party lay clame to respectability, but it is not proper to asale the privit caracter uv our candidate, becoz we don't make no sich a clame. Inasmuch ez Joe Bigler kin git together a hundred niggers who bear the noses uv a skore uv our best dimocrats, shel we condem Cleveland, wich is only charged with a haf dozen? Dimocrisy must be consistent. The charges agin Cleveland will make vote for him in thes Corners. Ez we sympathised with Mr. Beecher some years ago, so we sympathise with Cleveland now. Indeed wer it not for the record the great Hendrix made, ez an unflinchin oponent of a crool war wich deprived us uv privileges, we shood insist that he resin from the tikit that we mite substitoot the name uv Henry Ward Beecher.

"An now that I think uv it that is wat we want to do. We want a symettrikel tiket. Grover Cleveland is best known by the peple uv the Yoonited States by his connexion with the Wider Halpin, and Henry Ward Beecher by his connexion with the Tilton family. Let us make the tikit symetrikel. Let it be

CLEVELAND AND BEECHER!

"Ef we suceed in electin em the peples idea uv jestis kin be done. Mrs. Halpin and Mrs. Tilton, both of wich are in straitened circumstanses, kin be given posishuns in the treasury department, and they will be pervided for and everything made lovely.

"This wood be a symetrikel tikit, and a wel balanced tikit, a tikit both ends uv wich wood come together, like a snake with its tale in its mouth. I move that the democratic nashnal committy be advised uv the ackshen uv this meetin' and rekested to make the change to-wunst."

The matter wuz taken under considerashun, and we meet tomorror evenin' to decide onto it.

May wisdom guide their councils. I don't like to see Hendrix shelved, but the war ishoos are old, and noo ishoos hev arizen. We shel remember his services to the Confedracy with gratitood, but everything must be sacrificed for success. The postoffices is our goal, and to gain them we must run faithfully and strongly.

New York Times.

Statistics of the foundry and engineering shops known under the name of Krupp's Works, at Essen, include the following: In 1860 the foundry employed only 1764 men; in 1870 the number had increased to 7084; to-day some 20,000 are employed. Reckoning the wives and children of the workmen, there is a total of 65,984 souls dependent upon the enterprise, out of which number 29,000 actually reside in dwellings attached to the works. The number of furnaces in blast is 11, and the other smaller furnaces 1542. There are 439 boilers, 82 steam hammers, and 450 steam engines, representing a total of 185,000 horse power. At Essen alone there are nearly 37 miles of railway lines, 28 locomotives, 883 wagons, 69 horses, 191 carts, 40 miles of telegraph line, 35 stations and 15 Morse instruments.

What Isn't Swearing in West Virginia.

Pittsburg Times.

Professor Woodville Latham, of the University of West Virginia, has been acquitted by the board of regents of charges of profanity. During the investigation witnesses testified that the professor once remarked in class: "Between me and my God there is not oxygen nor hydrogen there." Again he declared that chapel exercises were "d—d foolishness." Still again he exclaimed: "Botheration dad burn the d— thing."

A Story by Tom Ochiltree.

Stephensville Enterprise.

A highwayman recently stopped a young lady riding on horseback and demanded her money. She dropped her purse in the road and then started on a run for home. The highwayman dismounted to secure the purse, when his horse started off after the young lady, following her [illegible] home. He was caught by the girl's [illegible] and on examination $8000 was found in [illegible] pockets. The aforesaid highwayman [illegible] felt rather down in the mouth.

TRADE AND COMMERCE.

MONDAY, Aug. 26.

At noon time to-day a light, steady rain began. This continued nearly all the afternoon. The storm evidently came from the coast, as .35 in. fell at the mouth of the Columbia in eight hours. Unless soon checked it will work its way up the valley and work some hardship to harvesters. The evening weather report is expected to show rain at valley points. The shower appears to dampen trade circles, although a good shipping movement is continued. The arrival of the Grisedale has placed new stocks of salt in the market, which has been quite bare for some time of Liverpool grades. The Alphena is daily expected, but she has cement as larger part of cargo. Steamers from San Francisco are bringing larger consignments, including stocks for Montana and northern California.

Overland receipts include 50 cs lard, 15 tcs hams, 15 cs sauce, 25 pkgs tobacco, 50 qr, 85 hf, 15 bbls beer.

PRODUCE RECEIPTS—Past 24 hours: 1860 ctls wheat, 581 bbls flour, 431 ctls oats, 20 sks potatoes, 255 lbs wool, 60 lbs hides, 65 cs eggs, 91 bxs fruit, 7 pkgs butter. Also 8067 ctls wheat, 250 bbls flour, 12 148 lbs wool, 476 lbs hides from the eastern section.

IMPORTS—Per str Columbia from San Francisco: 240 hf 250 bbls 85 bxs 20 kgs 330 sks sugar, 4 cs syrup, 226 sks 127 cs 19 bbls coffee, 45 sks 881 mats rice, 19 bls 1114 sks salt, 125 kgs 62 cs pickles, 119 sacks beans, 160 cs canned goods, 6 tins matches, 2 cs sauce, 8 cs cream tartar, 11 ctes chocolate, 61 cs soda and sal, 50 cs paste, 10 cs yeast powder, 12 cs wash powder, 25 cs pearl barley, 1 bl 11 bbls meal, 11 cs ax grease, 19 cs extract, 21 cs mustard, 10 cs sardines, 6 cs lye, 408 bxs soap, 6 cs ess lemon, 38 pkgs spice, 25 cs candles, 122 cs bak powder, 24 pkgs candy, 6 bxs 13 sks nuts, 36 cs split peas, 11 bbls vinegar, 3 cs bacon, 7 cs codfish, 11 bxs prunes, 20 buckets 10 cs lard, 17 cs 3 hf bbls salmon, 9 sks 45 bxs dried fruit, 5 pkgs raisins, 32 pkgs crackers, 4 cs cheese, 65 cs honey, 1 bxs butter, 1 bl hops, 1 flsk quicksilver, 50 sks onions, 10 cs limes, 34 cs lemons, 20 bxs oranges, 32 bxs peaches, 211 bxs grapes, 152 pkgs sweets, 8 ctes melons, 486 bxs fruit, 100 bbls plaster, 296 bls grain bags, 34 bls bagging, 225 sks ground barley, 520 sks malt, 16 kgs 20 bxs nails, 10 cls rope, 45 pkgs tobacco, 66 cs cigars.

FREIGHTS—No business doing, with no apparent prospect of any in the present situation. Iron is nominally quoted 50s for orders, but this is not now deemed possible.

WHEAT—The English market is again quoted lower, California off coast 36s and prompt shipment only a sixpence better, indicating a lack of confidence in the market for the next three or four months. Other qualities show even a wider range of values between off coast and prompt shipment. Chicago quotations are for October and show no change of consequence. Buyers at San Francisco have materially lowered their views and it would seem that sellers must follow them. In our own market trading is light and quotations are unchanged. Report says valley limits are out at $1 15 or better, but no one acknowledges such figures. Very little is being done and it is difficult to quote closely. The Northern Pacific has announced a rate on wheat of $8 per ton from Wallula to Duluth. Pressure is being brought forward to force a reduction of rates to this city by the O. R. & N. Co., and the action of the Northern Pacific may hasten the establishment of a lower tariff this way.

FLOUR—Standards quoted at $4 50@4 75; others, $4@4 50. A good local trade is had.

MILLSTUFF—Very little doing, and receipts are light. Jobbing values unchanged.

Oats—Market not crowded, but 30c is top price for feed.

PROVISIONS—Stocks show a poor assortment, and are altogether light. Values are firm, as last quoted.

FRUIT—All kinds in large stock, and offerings are excessive. Last sales are covered by latest quotations and the market exhibits nothing new.

CHICKENS—Quote old at $5@6, young, $2 50@3.

EGGS—Arrivals are somewhat larger to-day, and the 25c quotation is threatened.

SHIPPING NOTES.

The Br bark City of Carlisle, hence April 22 with 28,6[illegible] ctls wheat on owners' account, has arrived out in a passage of 125 days.

The Idaho is in from San Francisco with freight.

The Alameda has completed a salmon cargo at Astoria.

A New York shipowner believes there is yet money in ships, but they must be modern sailing ships and built of iron. He claims that more money is to be made out of iron ships, and says they will carry more cargo than a wooden ship with the same outside dimensions. The weight of a wooden hull is about one-third of its displacement and the weight of the cargo is about three-fifths. The ratio of hull to cargo is, therefore, about 5 to 9. Iron ships well constructed weigh 25 per cent. less than wooden, and an iron ship, he claims, will carry 113 tons for every 100 tons carried by a wooden ship when both are of the same outside dimensions and both loaded to the same draught of water. Placing the life of an iron hull at fifty years there is an annual depreciation of 2 per cent. The depreciation of a wooden hull is 5 per cent. The Clarence S. Bement, iron, measures 1900 tons and loaded 3100 tons. A wooden ship to carry this must register 2100 tons. The price of wooden ships at the Bath yards is from $60 to $65 per ton, so the wooden would cost $132,000. The iron ship at the present rate of $55 per ton costs $175,000. The difference is $38,500, on which the interest is $1540 a year. The annual depreciation of the wooden is $6600 and the iron $3410, or a difference of $3190. Subtracting the $1540 it is found that the iron has gained in one year $1650 in the one item. Regarding profits, he says the Bement carried 3100 tons cargo, for which she received $27,900. If she got $12 for grain she would receive outward $37,200. To get around to her port of departure would require one year. Out of the gross income of $65,000 she pays for insurance $7673, crew and food $15,000, brokerage $3410, chandlery $2000, pilotage $500, stevedores $2200, and interest $6820 or a total of about $39,000. This would pay nearly 10 per cent. on the investment. The figures presented by this owner may be quite correct, but if the Bement clears $16,000 her first year she will be doing far better than is generally expected. No doubt the iron ship or the steel ship, is the ship of to-day and the future, and to them American owners must look for profits. Certainly the metal ship has every advantage in freight rates and capacity, as well as longevity, and she can get a cargo when a wooden ship would lie idle.

What Came of Being Selfish.

Texas Siftings.

"Say, Shorty," said a passenger to a horse car conductor, "what has become of Bilks, who used to run a car on this line?"

"Got the g. b. the other day from the company."

"What was the matter?"

"Why, he took seventy fares on the up trip and only reported thirty."

"Seems to me he was rather greedy."

"Yes, Bilks was too much of a hog, an' that don't pay in the long run, 'cause it makes the company dissatisfied. I don't think it's right to do anything unreasonable. You see, the company furnishes the horses an' the cars and then pays the conductor an' the driver, besides the necessary repairs and losses. A man oughter act square, an' he won't get left. Bilks oughter done the fair thing by the company an' give them half anyway," and then he collected five fares from passengers and rang three on the indicator with the consciousness of an honest man.

THE BEST

Hair restorative in the world is HALL'S HAIR RENEWER. It cures all diseases of the scalp, and stimulates the hair glands to healthful action. It stops the falling of the hair; prevents its turning gray; cures baldness, and restores youthful color and freshness of appearance to heads already white with age. The following are a few illustrations of what is done by

HALL'S
Vegetable Sicilian
HAIR RENEWER:

Mrs. HUNSBERRY, 344 Franklin Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y., after a severe attack of Erysipelas in the head, found her hair—already gray—falling off so rapidly that she soon became quite bald. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER brought it back as soft, brown and thick as when she was a girl.

Mr. KESLING, an old farmer, near Warsaw, Ind., had scarcely any hair left, and what little there was of it had become nearly white. One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER stopped its falling out, and gave him a thick, luxuriant head of hair, as brown and fresh as he ever had.

Mrs. A. T. WALL, Greenfield, Cheshire, Eng., writes: "I have found the greatest benefit from the use of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER, it having restored my hair, which was rapidly falling off, and returned its original color."

DR. EMIL SEIP, Detroit, Mich., certifies that "HALL'S HAIR RENEWER is excellent for hair growing, and gives back the natural color to faded and gray hair."

Mrs. S. E. ELLIOTT, Glenville, W. Va., says: "One bottle of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER restored my hair to its natural, youthful color."

No injurious substances enter into the composition of HALL'S HAIR RENEWER, and it is not a dye. Its vegetable ingredients render it in the highest degree beneficial to the scalp as a preventive of disease. Its effects are natural and lasting, and it does not make the hair dry and brashy, like the so-called restoratives compounded with alcohol.

Buckingham's Dye
FOR THE WHISKERS

Is, in four respects, superior to all others.
1st—It will produce a rich, natural color, brown or black, as desired.
2d—The color so produced is permanent, cannot be washed off, and will not soil anything with which it comes in contact.
3d—It is a single preparation, and more convenient of application than any other hair or whisker dye.
4th—It contains no deleterious ingredients, as do many preparations offered for like use.

EPPS'S COCOA.
BREAKFAST.
"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette.
